Reveal $1.5 Million Plan For Plant Site at Donora

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $1.5 million plan for developing a site formerly occupied by a steel plant in Donora, Pa., was announced Wednesday by the Economic Development Administration.
The industrial and commercial development of the site might result in more than 2,800 jobs, the announcement said.
The study, by Ernst & Ernst, a consulting firm, had been requested by Mon Valley Progress Council. The property is held by Monongahela Industrial Development Association, a nonprofit corporation.
The study covers potential uses for 284 acres of river site and 420 acres of hill site. United States Steel Co. completed the gradual shutdown of its Donora plant in July. At one time the plant employed 6,500 persons.
The study recommends a three-phase development plan carried out over eight years, primarily to improve the river site for such uses as heavy and medium industry, a shopping center, motel and restaurant, and recreation park and marina.
The river site would be capable of generating $45 million in investments and creating 2,839 jobs, the study says.
State I would take two years and cost an estimated $400,000, according to the report. It would involve an area between the Donora-Webster Bridge and north of 1st Street. Stage II would take an additional two years and cost about $645,000. It would involve land adjoining the Stage I area down to Market Street.

Constitutional Convention Unanimously Adopts Rules

By PAUL ZDINAK
HARRISBURG (AP) — Moving with dispatch, the Constitutional Convention unanimously adopted Wednesday a set of rules for its operation after defeating a proposal for a special committee for the minor judiciary.

The half-hour debate on the minor judiciary proposal marked the first floor fight of the four-day-old convention. The vote killing this proposal was 17-13.
Then, after brief discussion, the 163-member convention adopted rules to guide its deliberations on a vote of 150-0. There were 13 delegates absent.
The convention then adjourned until Thursday at 9:30 a. m., when cabinet members and other state executive branch officials will be honored. The delegates also will be briefed on local government and taxation and finance.
The three-month convention will offer recommendations on these topics, as well as on the judiciary and apportionment articles in Pennsylvania's Constitution. The voters will decide these recommendations at the primary election.

Before the adoption of rules, the convention honored the state legislature and heard a briefing on the judiciary article from former Judge Burton R. Laub, dean of the Dickinson School of Law.

Between now and Monday, Convention President Raymond J. Broderick and the three other convention officers will be busy selecting members for 24 committees — 8 standing and 16 subcommittees.

According to the rules, Broderick is to appoint the members after consulting with Secretary James A. Michener and Vice Presidents Robert P. Casey and Frank A. Urban Jr.

Key rules include seating strictly by alphabetical order; appointment of co-chairman for

Clark Names

Campaign Head

HARRISBURG (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said Wednesday he has tapped Dr. Edward Litchfield to head a statewide committee to support his candidacy for re-election in 1968.

Clark, generally regarded as a liberal, said Litchfield should be able to help him win votes in the business community.

Litchfield, a former chairman of the University of Pitts. burgh, is chairman of the SCM Corp., which manufactures typewriters, small home appliances, and paints.

Questioned about the possibility of a primary battle for the Democratic nomination, Clark said he believed it would be better for the party to go into the election united.

The 67-year-old senator, who has disagreed in the past with President Johnson's Vietnam policies, re-affirmed his intention to support Johnson's re-nomination and re-election in 1968.

Only Few Cuts in Budget Are Made After Hearings

JAMESTOWN, N.Y.—James-town GOP City Council conducted budget hearings again last night for three hours and made only a few budget cuts. The council did, however, tag several items with questionmarks for later scrutiny. Most of last night's session was done on the $211,500 budget for the operation of the City's sewage treatment plant.

Several councilmen expressed concern for trimming the $136,000 request for operating expenses with no consideration being given to salaries. The 1968 request is nearly $40,000 above the 1967 appropriation. Richard Stahlman, chief operator of the sewage treatment plant, accompanied DPW Director Joseph Seale at last night's meeting to answer questions from the councilmen.

The only major cut made last night was a $4,700 reduction for repairing the access road to the sewage treatment plant. The Department request for the repair work was $5,000, but the councilmen allowed only three hundred dollars to permit mowing the road next summer.

Fifteen hundred dollars was cut for the purchase of a mowing machine. The mowing at the sewage treatment plant is presently done by the parks department which the new council felt was satisfactory for 1968. Another $1,000 was

Forfeit Bail

Falconer, N. Y. police reported that two Warren teenagers forfeited $10 bail each when they failed to appear before Peace Justice A. E. Harry Johnson Monday night on charges of falsifying their ages to obtain alcoholic beverages. According to police the girl and boy involved were 17 years old. The drinking age in New York State is 18.

each committee, one from each party; and as nearly equal political division of committees as possible.

"This is the best set of rules ever adopted by a convention in recent years," Broderick, who is Pennsylvania's lieutenant governor, remarked.

The proposed amendment for a subcommittee for the minor judiciary was offered from the floor by Del. Theodore R. Laputka, R-Luzerne.

It was immediately opposed by Casey and former Gov. William W. Scranton, who headed a temporary panel that sent the proposed rules to the floor.

Laputka contended that the minor judiciary question was so serious it deserved to be considered by a subcommittee.

But Scranton said the question should be discussed as part of the framework of the entire judicial article.

Laub told the delegates theirs was "an awesome task."

"I envy you your opportunities; I shudder at the magnitude of your responsibilities," he said.

Some of the questions he

Radiation Danger May Be Industrywide Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Public Health Service said Wednesday radiation danger found in some General Electric Co. color television sets may be an industrywide problem.

The Health Service announced it has asked the Electronics Industries Association to cooperate in a nationwide program to check for possible excessive radiation from TV sets.

A survey in Pinellas County, Fla., revealed the possibility of an industrywide problem, the PHS said in a statement.

The problem with big screen GE color sets was revealed last July. PHS said then 90 per cent of 112,000 potentially dangerous receivers had been corrected but 9,000 hadn't been located.

Dr. William H. Stewart, U.S. surgeon general, said in Wednesday's statement the potential for biological damage is quite low.

Long exposure to radiation can cause damage to the sex organs, with such effects as sterility and genetic damage that could lead to birth defects.

General Electric said later in a statement it will continue to cooperate with the PHS. It added the Pinellas County survey confirmed the original downward radiation leakage "had been effectively corrected."

The Pinellas County survey also found sideward leakage in some color sets.

The PHS said the Pinellas County survey showed the original downward leakage of X-rays had been effectively corrected by GE through set modifications. But sideward radiation showed up later on the GE sets, the only brand checked in the survey.

No further budget sessions are scheduled until Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m.

The outgoing Democratic administration did not prepare a budget for 1968, because it did not wish to commit the incoming Magnuson administration to a spending program not of their own choosing. The $12.8 million budget on which the incoming council is working, represents only the departmental requests, and includes no cuts made by the mayor's office.

Rise in Steel Prices Raises Knotty Question

NEW YORK (AP) — The newest round of steel price increases raised a knotty question Wednesday: Will it increase the spiraling imports of steel?

American steelmakers have been demanding that Congress limit the amount of steel that can be brought in from abroad. But in the face of stiffening foreign competition they continued selective price increases on important products.

U.S. Steel Corp., the No. 1 producer, and second ranked Bethlehem Steel Corp. Wednesday announced their second price increases in a week. U.S. Steel raised galvanized and aluminum coated sheets by $5 a ton. Bethlehem joined only in the boost on galvanized sheets.

Last Friday, U.S. Steel initiated a $5-a-ton boost on cold-rolled sheets which are used in the manufacture of automobiles and appliances. Bethlehem; Republic, No. 3; Armco, No. 6, and Inland went along.

Armco also raised its price of cold-rolled strip and galvanized sheet and strip $5 a ton and hot-rolled sheet and strip $4 a ton.

If these increases become general, piecemeal boosts this year will have covered 80 per cent of industry shipments of finished products.

A major question was whether European and Japanese steel-makers would raise their prices on exports to increase their now-slender profit margins or hold the line in an effort to expand sales in the United States.

French producers indicated they would try to take advantage of higher U.S. prices to increase their exports. West German steelmakers said they hoped the U.S. price rise would enable them to raise their price. The British Steel corp. said it was too early to reach a decision on a price increase.

Sunday New Year's Eve Brings Complications

By HAL COOPER
NEW YORK (AP) — New Year's Eve falls on Sunday this year, causing all sorts of complications for those bent on the traditional whooping-up.

Senate Refuses To Trim Bill

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — The Senate refused Wednesday to trim $2.5 billion from the administration's three-year, $14.5 billion school aid bill.

The vote was 54 to 27, a surprisingly wide margin of defeat for Senate economy forces at a time when Congress as a whole is demanding spending cutbacks by the White House.

The economy move came as debate on the huge school bill droned on for a third day. Several senators fell asleep at their desks.

A final vote is not likely until later this week, and there is some chance that the entire bill will be laid aside until next year if Southerners, intent of easing federal desegregation regulations, launch a filibuster.

The bill would authorize federal funds for elementary and secondary schools for three years, starting next July 1. Congress had earlier authorized funds for the present fiscal year, ending June 30. Most of the funds would go to schools in slum areas. Funds also would be authorized for supplementary educational centers, textbooks and library books and other school assistance.

In others with Sunday no-drinking laws enforcement officers will, hopefully, look the other way. For instance, a state liquor official in Sunday-dry Georgia remarked: "My agents lead a normal life—they're going to have New Year's Eve off."

A number of thoughtful legislatures passed bills this year exempting Sunday, Dec. 31, 1967, from state laws which ban Sabbath boozing in public places.

The District of Columbia had an offbeat situation. There, only beer and wine may be sold until midnight Sunday. One minute later the law permits the hard stuff to flow freely.

Maryland law permits alcoholic beverage sales on Sunday, but in Baltimore, the state's major city, it isn't that simple. The city issues both seven-day and six-day liquor licenses. Outlets with seven-day licenses can stay open all day and night any Sunday. Those with six-day licenses can't sell on Sunday, but can start pouring one minute after midnight.

Maine, Ohio, New Mexico, Alabama, Arkansas and Iowa are among the states which forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages on Sundays and are making no exception for this one.

Legislatures which took action to cope with the juxtaposition of New Year's Eve and Sunday included those of Pennsylvania and Colorado.

The Pennsylvania solons decreed that henceforth alcoholic beverages may be sold on Sundays which coincide with New Year's Eve. Otherwise, the law against Sabbath drinking stands.

A new law in Colorado provided an extension of drinking hours from midnight Sunday to 2 a.m. Monday for outlets which put up a $200 special fee.

Doubles U.S. Capacity To Track Orbiting Objects

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
ELGIN AIR FORCE BASE, Fla.—A huge new radar that doubles the United States' capability to track orbiting objects was unveiled here Wednesday.

There are about 1,500 objects in orbit now—satellites, rockets and smaller space debris. Space experts predict that 5,000 objects will be in orbit by the mid-1970s.

The new radar is contained in a giant concrete building, more than a block long and 15 stories high, with a sloped face that lacks the familiar rotating antenna of most radar installations.

Instead of scanning the skies mechanically, it does so electronically, transmitting as many as 5,184 beams of radio energy at space targets and receiving the energy that is bounced back with 4,660 receiving elements buried beneath the plastic foam on the face of the building.

It can simultaneously detect, track, identify and predict the orbits of many objects, the first radar designed specifically for such space tracking.

The new radar has been given the added duty of detecting ballistic missile attacks launched from ships or submarines.

However, it is not designed to guard against the fractional orbital bombs which the Defense Department has said the Soviet Union is developing.

These objects travel for less than one revolution around the earth at a height of 90 to 100 miles, instead of lofting 800 miles above the earth as a ballistic missile does.

The Golden Eagle Act

About face! This is the standard order given by the commanding officer in the army when it becomes desirable or judicious to reverse the course of action. So it isn't too surprising to learn that such an order must have been voiced by some top official of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers recently in relation to the provisions of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act as they apply to recreational facilities being constructed and operated by the Corps.

Less than a month ago the Corps, which had formerly proposed their own compromises to the terms of the Golden Eagle act, stated they would defer the collection of fees at their facilities until January 1, 1969, to allow Congress time to consider several bills that had been introduced to prevent the Corps from charging at their facilities.

A more recent announcement, however, indicates that Col. James B. Meanor Jr., executive director of Civil Works for the Army Corps of Engineers, accompanied by two civilian aides, appeared before the subcommittee, House Committee on Public Works, and spoke out against the proposed bills.

ART BUCHWALD

The True McNamara Story

HARRISBURG—Although Pennsylvania's 1967 legislative session is still in existence (lawmakers are due back Monday following last week's constitutional convention recess) there are those who already are pointing to the yet-to-convene 1968 gathering!

Among these "pointers" is that indomitable army of pressure groups who flourish each year in an almost continuing drive to induce lawmakers to clear legislation favorable to their cause—financially or otherwise.

The year 1967 has been almost a disastrous year for these people; the legislature has been too knotted in its own world of woes and problems to pay much heed to the pleas of the specialty people. Lawmakers are still trying to work their way somehow out of the fiscal stalemate that has been their top concern, forcing other issues to the legislative bone yard.

For the pressure groups it has been scratch the year 1967. They're pointing now, as they have been somewhat despairingly the past several months, to 1968. From a practical standpoint however, 1968 may be as sad a legislative year as 1967—for everyone!

MASON DENISON

The Yet-to-Convene Session

WASHINGTON -- The debate over whether Secretary Robert S. McNamara jumped or was pushed out of his Defense Department job goes on unabated in Washington. McNamara-watchers were caught flat-footed when a London bank letter leaked out that the secretary of defense had been nominated to head the World Bank.

One student of Great Society upheavals was still kicking himself this week when he told me: "I should have known something was wrong when Capt. Chuck Robb didn't select McNamara as his best man for the Lynda Bird wedding."

All sorts of stories about how President Johnson and Secretary McNamara agreed to part have appeared in the newspapers and on television, and as usual I'm the only one who got the inside scoop.

It has been known for some time that Secretary McNamara and former screen star Shirley Temple Black disagreed on the strategy of conducting the Vietnam war. Shirley has wanted to mine Haiphong Harbor, bomb the center of Hanoi and go

Col. Meanor said that this past season on areas where fees had been collected the cost of collection roughly equalled the amount of money collected, mostly because extra rangers had to be employed. In some cases, he said, these rangers could be used for other purposes. Therefore it was possible to consider that the collections did exceed the collection costs.

But it was Col. Meanor's final statement to the subcommittee that, more than anything else, indicated the future course of the Corps in relating itself to the Golden Eagle program. "Ultimately," Col. Meanor said, "the Corps opposes the enactment of any legislation which excepts the Army from the application of a national policy and program."

Which means, it seems, that Congress alone, by passage of the bills would prohibit fees being collected at Corps recreational facilities, can prevent the Corps of Engineers from marching in cadence along with other federal agencies toward a common goal--of bringing good administration policies to a well-intended act and making it the successful program Congress hoped it would be.

The significant point is that when you add up what these specialized groups would like to have taxpayers of the Keystone State for over for projects, it comes to a rather tidy sum—in fact somewhere in the area of about a quarter-billion dollars!

Obviously the demands of the "pet project" groups cannot be met by any stretch of the imagination without throwing Pennsylvania's already shaky fiscal blueprint into turmoil—but the groups are in there pitching every session, just as they will be come the 1968 session.

Virtually nothing seems to deter these pressure groups, of which there are more than a hundred such statewide organizations headquartered here in the capital city.

They'll turn out mimeographed tomes by the pound extolling their particular project, detailing why they "must" have additional monies, or rather, why their related state function should have additional taxpayer monies.

These groups run the gamut from advocates of more and more money for highways, for the school system, mental health, political subdivisions, libraries—you name it, there's a pressure group of one kind or another for that particular item.

Offtimes these groups are made up of "public spirited" citizens, who pay a couple of bucks a year "just to belong."

It is these contributions, plus for all-out victory against the enemy. She has been supported in her position by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Secretary McNamara, on the other hand, has been more cautious than Shirley, hoping to eke out some sort of settlement short of blowing up all of Southeast Asia.

President Johnson was somewhere in the middle. While he respected his secretary of defense, the Shirley Temple solution sounded more appealing as each day went by.

The President would have probably let things ride as they were, except for a casual conversation he had with McNamara a few months ago. The President asked him:

"Bob, where do you do your banking?"

"I have a friend at the Chase Manhattan," the secretary of defense replied.

"I have you ever thought of putting your money in the World Bank?" the President asked.

"I understand if you open an account there before January you get a free set of dishes."

McNamara said, "I have the greatest respect for the World Bank, and I sure could use a free set of dishes, but I don't know anybody over there."

"I know George Woods, and I'll give him a call tomorrow."

"Gosh, Mr. President, you

RUSSELL BAKER

Hershey Goes Soft

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON — It is painful to disagree with Gen. Lewis B. Hershey. He has been a great draft director, perhaps the greatest draft director this country has ever had. One wants to do him only honor, and yet it must be said, with all respect, that he is wrong

Baker

This is not punishment for engaging in political activity, he says. Military service, he points out, is a "privilege," and students drafted for it should be proud to receive it. General Hershey surely cannot have thought this thing through. In the first place, it is patently unfair. Why should a bunch of rowdy troublemakers be given a privilege which millions of American men have had to earn the hard way?

Consider the obstacles the typical young man must overcome before he is admitted to the privilege of the draft. In this oozing affluent society, he has to overcome enormous odds to avoid being born to parents who can afford to send him to college.

At present, of course, the draftee feels it was worth the struggle. Had he been sent to college, he would have had to suffer the rigors of 9 o'clock history lectures and Saturday night proms, instead of experiencing the joys of mastering to-the-rear-march and scraping garbage cans.

Some boys, threatened by high family income with the loss of their draft privilege, have to overcome the American educational system's brutal resistance to failing anyone before they can win their way into the draft.

How will these boys feel when they see their hard-gained rewards passed out to every campus loafer sprawled on the draft-board floor? Most likely, they are going to begin grumbling that America isn't what it used to be.

In short, General Hershey's policy is bound to damage morale. Even worse, however, it threatens the nation's moral fiber. National self-indulgence has already softened the old American fiber. If the government is to let college hooligans extort the privilege of being drafted by such paltry threats of force as draft board sit-ins, there can be no limit to the abuses children will be encouraged to practice.

If this sort of thing is not stopped, we may soon have a whole generation that thinks it is entitled to the benefit of ten years in prison merely for running a traffic light.

General Hershey's attitude reflects a weakness of will, a disturbing tendency to permissiveness that is entirely out of place in a man entrusted with the solemn task of bestowing one of the nation's highest privileges.

There are already scandalized rumors at the National Press Club bar that he has been reading Doctor Spock.

To give the general his due, it seems more likely that as he approaches the end of a long, distinguished career he has yielded to the humanitarian impulse to reach out as far as legally possible and grant the draft to boys who would have no hope of ever enjoying it without his kindly intercession.

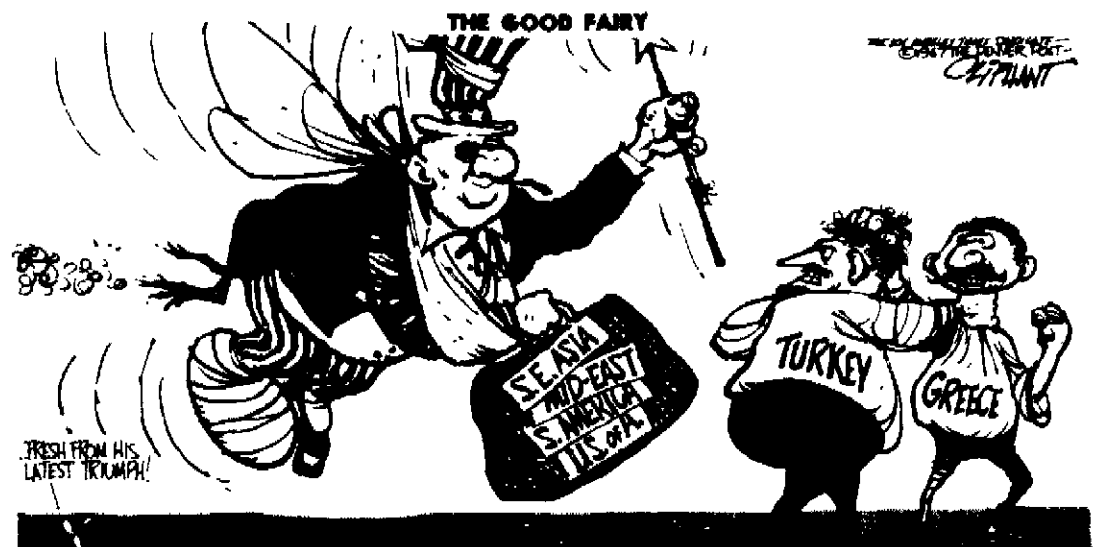

This shows a largeness of spirit that does him credit, but it is scarcely consistent with the Roman discipline the state would observe in bestowing its privileges. If the general wants to honor more young men than are now enjoying the draft, let him not favor those who resort to hooliganism.

Let him, instead, grant his boon to those who see it as the privilege it is. These would include vast numbers of unfortunate students who loyally support the war, though fated by family fortune and dazzling grades to be denied the splendor of the draft.

And let him not overlook the sons, nephews and cousins of congressmen, at present doomed by the misfortune of family connections never to hear the swish of the latrine brush or incoming mortars.

No one should be discriminated against because of his relations, his wealth or his professional football bonus, just as no one should be rewarded for playing the lout on the draft-board floor.

The state should quit coddling these last with the draft and take Draconian measures—30 days in jail or, in hard-core cases, four years in chemistry lab.

The Dollar 'Cut'

"Do something! That's what we hear over and over again from foreign central bankers who are looking to us to prove that we can get our finances under control when we set out to. They are demanding something more from the U.S. than just talk about the strength of the dollar and we have to give it to them."

With these words, a Federal Reserve official last week summarized the skeptical attitude of even friendly foreign governments toward the U.S. dollar since the British devalued the pound Nov. 18 — and small wonder.

During all but one of the past 17 years, we have been spending more abroad than we have been earning abroad, and as a result, our foreign creditors have built up immense claims in dollars against our gold stock. As of today, the potential claims on our $12 billion-plus of gold amount to $28 billion. Despite our stern pledge two years ago to dry up the dollar flood, this year we will run another deficit in our balance of payments of $2.5-$3 billion. Vietnam spending, our tourist spree, big U.S. investments abroad, foreign economic and military aid — all spell red ink in our international financial accounts.

Can we "do something?" Of course! We will surely act soon to eliminate the 25 per cent gold reserve requirement for Federal Reserve notes so that our entire gold stock is available to meet foreign demands. That's a technically, though. The significant point is that we have an arsenal of weapons with which we can dramatically change the situation, if we have the courage to use them. Specifically:

(1) Slashes in Federal Government spending and increases in Federal income taxes. These would help balance the Federal domestic budget, cool the economy and restrain the price-wage upward. As a result, our competitive position in world trade markets would be maintained, our exports would be spurred and consumer demands for imports would be dampened. The one great balance of payments "plus" we have going for us is our surplus of merchandise exports over imports. This we must preserve and enhance or we really will be out of control.

(2) High and even higher interest rates. These also will help cool the economy and in addition, will keep funds from flowing out of the U.S. to other financial centers in search of richer interest returns.

(3) Stiffer restrictions on U.S. investments are under some curbs now, the fact is that every dollar U.S. corporations send abroad is a potential claim on U.S. gold, and France's De Gaulle has said publicly he'll exercise the claim. Business dollar outflows represent a major leak.

(4) New, direct incentives to exports. Our tax laws could be adjusted to provide these.

(5) Much stronger emphasis on U.S. travel at home and on restraint of tourism. While the outcry against any curbs on tourism would be deafening, the fact is that U.S. tourists abroad this year alone will spend almost $2 billion more than foreign tourists here.

(6) Sharp reductions in spending for U.S. soldiers and their dependents in areas where the presence of our armed forces is hardly vital to U.S. security now.

This is only a partial list but it is broad and varied enough to underline the power of the weapons in our arsenal if — and the key word is indeed if — we choose to use them.

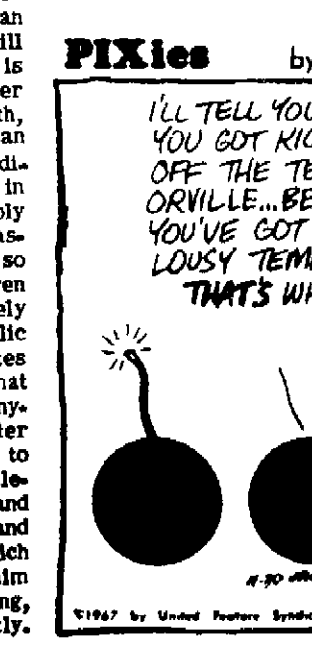

None of these moves would be easy to make. All arouse violent opposition.

But it's coming down to a question of priorities. To protect the dollar, we must "do something!"

Tomorrow: De Gaulle and gold.

LBJ and the Joint Chiefs

WASHINGTON—A significant interchange took place at the meeting of the National Security Council shortly after the news leak that Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara was transferring to the World Bank.

President Johnson, who was presiding, remarked: "In regard to the stories about Bob" —and he nodded toward the Secretary of Defense. "Those who have worked with him here should know the facts."

He then told how last April McNamara had been offered the presidency of the World Bank, was intrigued with the idea but was willing to stay on. Finally the President, not wanting to stand in the way of his accepting this challenge post, had authorized him to take it.

"At no time has there been any animosity between Bob and the Joint Chiefs," the President said, referring to reports of bickering by McNamara and the generals.

"But," he continued, turning to Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "I seem to remember that at these meetings you have nearly always been here. To make sure, however, I had a check made. It showed that out of 50 meetings, you were here 43 times."

"Those other times I was either sick or out of the country," interjected Gen. Wheeler. "Has anyone ever barred you from coming to see me?"

"No," was the reply. "You've all been here," continued the President. "You've all seen how the decisions were made. Has there been any animosity?"

Members of the National Security Council could say that there had been complete harmony between Gen. Wheeler and the Secretary of Defense. Actually McNamara picked Wheeler for the job, has liked him and respected him. The feeling has been mutual.

There has been resentment and animosity on the part of some admirals and generals at levels below the Joint Chiefs who at times have run to Capitol Hill hawks to tattletale on McNamara.

But with the Joint Chiefs of Staff it's been on the up-and-up. McNamara has given them permission to testify before Congressional committees and has told them they could go over his head to the President whenever they wished. Only once has Gen. Wheeler appealed over McNamara's head to the President.

There have been strong differences in regard to bombing North Vietnam, but never personal acrimony.

All week the old battle over both school desegregation and funds to Catholic schools has raged in the Senate. The debate is over the new education bill.

The public didn't realize it, but the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition in the House turned back

R.I.P. Cardinal Spellman

In fact, Cardinal Spellman was not popular among Catholics, though there were none who doubted his benevolence. I heard a Catholic intellectual remark contemptuously awhile ago that Cardinal Spellman had only twice in ten years assumed the pulpit, and on both occasions to denounce dirty movies.

In fact, in the modernist intellectual literary world Cardinal Spellman became an epitome, as in Spellman ## The Inside Story

Here is the inside on the mysterious secret document regarding Communists and the peace march which House Republican leader Gerald Ford claimed President Johnson read to a congressional group at a White House briefing. Actually what Ford was talking about consisted of two documents, both highly classified.

Ford reported the documents declared that the leaders of the massive anti-war protest which unsuccessfully stormed the Pentagon on Oct. 21 had been in contact with Vietnamese Communist officials. This was true.

What Ford didn't mention, however, was that the documents also reported "no credible or tangible evidence" that the Oct. 21 rally was controlled by the Communists.

The House GOP leader was one of the group summoned to the White House for a briefing on foreign aid. After a discussion on this subject lasting an hour, one congressman raised the question of the anti-war protests. The President picked up the two classified documents, typed on legal-size paper, and read excerpts.

The documents told of contacts between certain American anti-war leaders and North Vietnamese officials. There was a specific report on a trip to Hanoi by David Dellinger, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, and Dagmar Wilson, leader of the Women's Strike for Peace, principal organizers of the Oct. 21 anti-war rally.

Immediately after their return from North Vietnam, they began planning the protest demonstration. The assault upon the Pentagon made headlines around the world. Afterward Dellinger and Wilson received congratulatory cables from both Hanoi and Peking.

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong have scattered upon American positions propaganda leaflets which urge the GIs to get in touch with three anti-war organizations in the United States. The enemy leaflets identify them as Dellinger's National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, the Committee for Non-Violent Action, and the Students for a Democratic Society.

A spokesman for the Mobilization Committee acknowledged that Dellinger had visited Hanoi, but claimed he had tried to persuade the leaders in Hanoi and elsewhere to stage peace rallies to coincide with his Pentagon protest.

Maris Cakers, speaking for the Non-Violent Action group, also acknowledged that members had visited North Vietnam.

"We're flattered," he told this column, "that prospective defectors were advised to get in touch with us."

Anita Simpson, in behalf of the Students for a Democratic Society, denied any contacts with Hanoi except through Tom Hayden, who recently helped arrange the release of three American prisoners.

NEWS ANALYSIS

LBJ--No Single Posture

By MAX FRANKEL
(c) N. Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON — In just 24 hours Monday and Tuesday, President Johnson showed himself to four different audiences here in a half-dozen moods and with about a dozen themes, all of which the country is sure to hear repeatedly in the coming election campaign.

To those who have been wondering about the "new" Johnson and the "old" Johnson and the "new-old" model, the President thus replied in effect that he would not hold to any single posture. He played stand-up gagman and sedentary sarcasm. He boasted of achievements and complained of inaction. He vowed determination and scorned faint-heartedness.

Subtly, the President combined every claim of credit with a recognition of things that were wrong, leaving would-be critics with only obstructed targets. He poked fun openly at his own difficulties, leaving at least his immediate audiences visibly disarmed.

On both foreign and domestic issues, he built up patterns of argument that clearly represented the beginning of his summing-up of his first term in office.

The most sustained line of argument dealt with his most difficult problem, Vietnam. Addressing a conference of business leaders at the State Department Monday night, the President made fun of his Secretary of State, Dean Rusk, for working on the upper floors out of reach of pickets and remarked on the insatiable appetites of both doves and DUNKIRK, N.Y.—The attorney for a Dunkirk High School teacher charged with first-degree kidnapping and unlawful imprisonment of a 15-year-old girl student requested Tuesday that his client, married and the father of three children, be admitted to a hospital for observation. Charged is Ralph G. Burke, 33, of Dunkirk, a social studies teacher.

In a statement to police, the girl said she agreed last Wednesday to go away with Burke. Police quoted her as saying she met him at noon Thursday by pre-arrangement and the two drove to a motel thought to be in West Springfield, Pa., where they spent Thursday night. The new penal code classifies this as a kidnapping because a minor was abducted for more than 12 hours.

Meanwhile, the girl's mother reported her missing, indicating the girl might have headed for Corry. Police said the girl returned to Dunkirk Friday. Burke was arrested that day and found to be carrying $1,048. Burke, a graduate of Dunkirk High School, taught the girl in a social studies class in the 9th grade at Dunkirk Junior High School last year, police said.

But then came the carefully balanced themes, as follows:
— The policy in Vietnam was not really his doing but the work of a whole generation of Americans, including four Presidents and 11 Congresses. The policy offers America strength to block aggression for victims who seek help and will also fight for themselves.

— The purpose is not violence but the construction of a shield behind which weak countries can build toward stability.
— The long-run proves that the policy works, as it did re-soundingly in Europe after World War II. Asia, being more populous, is even more important to the peace of the world. Asians were hypnotized by the menace of Communist China and paralyzed by fear, but now they have help and are making good progress. And as they progress there is a decent hope that even China will mellow and concentrate on its own development.

— To look for the easy way out is to appease aggression as others did in the face of Hitler and Mussolini. To argue that Vietnam is distracting the nation from other world problems is wrong — witness the Kennedy Round of tariff agreements, new monetary accords, diplomacy to cool down the Middle East, Cyprus and the Congo and both agreements and further negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The end of the President's argument was like the beginning: "Now, Dean Rusk didn't make (the commitments), and I didn't make them. We just have to keep them. If you will keep the faith, we will keep the commitments."

The domestic themes and moods were put forth Monday at an informal news conference, at a signing ceremony for a bill extending government programs to aid the mentally retarded and at another signing ceremony Tuesday for a bill that streamlines programs of health assistance to the states, including a new program for rat control.

At one event there was sarcasm for the brothers of President Kennedy and their reaction to the shift of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara. At another, there was praise for the late President, his mother and sister.
At one bill signing there were jokes galore about wedding and critical clergy and the McNamara affair. At the other there was contempt for the members of Congress who had laughed at the President's rat control proposals.

The political value of all this was immediately appreciated by some of the President's aides, even though Johnson insists that his own plans are not yet made. It was a fitting 24 hours of work, however, for the man who began the week by saying that whoever may become the Democratic candidate for President next year, "I fully intend to support him."

The Price of Victory

"What," a local fan asked Tuesday night, "are you doing here? I thought you were a wrestling fan."

The scene was the WAHS gym and the occasion was the Dragons' home basketball opener.

While it's true that we're an avid follower of the mat sport, we have been known-contrary to popular belief-to take in a basketball game or two. In fact, we're well aware that the ball is pumped, and not stuffed. (Or is it the other way around?)

The point is, we were attending Dragon basketball games before wrestling was added to the program and do have some knowledge of the sport. We enjoy watching NBA games and try not to miss the NIT tourney and the NCAA finals on television.

Now that we've presented our credentials, perhaps our comments here on the Warren-Bradford game will not be laughed off as a sports editor's feeble attempt to keep the cage crowd happy.

Despite the outcome, we thought the Dragons played pretty good basketball. The defense looked improved, the team has hustle, moved the ball well on offense and worked clear for good shots.

The problem was, of course, that the shots weren't going in.

And that's the name of the game.

To be perfectly frank, this ballclub isn't the most talented Warren team we've ever seen. There are some good athletes, but no outstanding scorer as was graduated Scott Hunter and that means you have to play a different style of basketball.

If the 1967-68 edition of Warren basketball is to finish with a winning record, it will take a concerted team effort every time out. That means that at least four and no less than three members of the team will have to score 12 to 18 points a game and all five men on the floor will have to play defense.

Talent is an important part of basketball and it's evident that the Dragons will meet many teams with more overall ability. Tomorrow night's opponent, Erie East, is an example. The Warriors will take the floor an overwhelming favorite and, even if outplayed, will be difficult to defeat.

But it's possible.

More important than winning these independent games, however, is the team's record against Section II teams.

The lack of success (and that means taking the title) in the conference has long been a disappointment to Dragon fans. For all intents and purposes, Meadville IS Section II basketball, so there are four other schools who also yearn for the crown.

Except for an occasional threat from the Dragons, Franklin and Titusville a few years ago, the Bulldogs dominate the league. The problem is that Meadville's athletic system is basketball-oriented.

Although the Bulldogs have won a football game or two and trimmed us in wrestling, Warren has enjoyed much success against Meadville in all sports but basketball. Would we be willing to switch positions with the Bulldogs?

Would we sacrifice victories in football, baseball, cross country and track to be a basketball power?

With few exceptions, Meadville's basketball players participate in few, if any, other sports during the year. The development of cage skills is a year-round endeavor, at least for boys who play the most and best ball for MHS.

This dedication has been evident in Warren for the past few years to some extent and paid off with a State championship in cross country. Should we, therefore, encourage our athletes to specialize?

We would be against it.

We disapprove of a talented athlete forsaking all other sports to concentrate on one, at least on the high school level. If you will recall the names of Warren's finest athletes, you will remember that they were proficient in many sports.

The same is true of most national sports stars. Although we think of Wilt Chamberlain as one of pro basketball's truly outstanding all-time players, he was also a Pennsylvania 440-yard dash champion and could have been world class, would have been a great football player and, some contend, could take the world heavyweight boxing title.

So, the question is: what price will we pay to win the Section II basketball crown? Should we take out five or six best sophomores and freshmen and make them concentrate on basketball for the next three years to gamble on the title in 1970?

The only other alternative is to simply win games in the conference and whip the Bulldogs in a head-to-head game. Like tomorrow night's contest with East, it's not impossible.

You've often heard of the old adage "winning isn't everything, it's the only thing." If that were true, half the teams wouldn't be playing, for half the teams in every sport are losers.

Fortunately, there's more to athletics than winning games.

But, it is nice to be a winner.

YOUNGVILLE SKIWAYS OPEN

The Youngsville Skiways, billed as the "largest and finest ski area in Northwestern Pennsylvania," held its official opening last weekend. The local facility lists 13 trails, a 3,000 foot T-Bar, a rope-tow and a ski lodge, featuring a warm fire and hot food in its new brochure for the season. Rental of skis, boots and poles are available and the rates, both for the weekend and the season, are reasonable. (See story below left)

Youngsville Skiways in Full Swing

The Youngsville Skiways of officially opened last weekend, one of the earliest opening dates on record for the area.

Elmer Hill, manager of the local facility, who has patiently and philosophically endured three consecutive "open" winters, predicts that this season will be a skier's dream. Fans of the winter sport hope he's right.

During the past summer a few new features were readied for area skiers, including one new connecting trail, larger trail signs and a new, revised trail map. A new and rather unique brochure has also been printed, proudly emphasizing the fact that the Youngsville Skiways is Northwestern Pennsylvania's largest and finest area.

The Skiways will be open Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and on Wednesday and Friday nights from 7 p.m. until 10:30. During the Christmas holiday, the area will also remain open on weekdays.

Pro Grid Playoff Games Slate Nears Completion

NEW YORK (AP) — With the Green Bay Packers and Dallas Cowboys already having clinched their division titles in the National Football League, the outline of the post-season playoff schedules in pro football have begun to emerge.

Baltimore and Los Angeles still are battling for the Coastal Division championship but this race could end this weekend, it might carry over to the final game of the season, Dec. 17, when Baltimore plays at Los Angeles. The eventual survivor will play Green Bay Dec. 23 at Milwaukee.

Cleveland and St. Louis meet Sunday at St. Louis in a game that could decide the Century Division and the opponent of Dallas Dec. 24 in the Eastern Conference playoff at Dallas.

The American Football League race also has two races still going. Oakland has the edge on San Diego for the Western Division title but each has three to play. New York and Houston are tied in the East with three to go.

If the race is decided at the end of the regular season Dec. 24, the AFL title game will be played Dec. 31 in the home city of the Western Division winner, Oakland or San Diego. If there is a tie, playoffs between New York and Houston the game will be at New York Dec. 31 with the championship game set back to Jan. 7.

The NFL title game will be played Dec. 31 in the home park of the Western Conference champ (Green Bay, Los Angeles or Baltimore).

The Playoff Bowl between the two second place teams in the NFL (losers of the Dec. 23-24 games) will be played at Miami Jan. 7.

Of course, the Super Bowl game between the NFL and AFL champs will be played in Miami's Orange Bowl Sunday, Jan. 14.

The schedule:

Sat. Dec. 23—Baltimore or Los Angeles vs. Green Bay at Milwaukee

Sun. Dec. 24—Cleveland or St. Louis vs. Dallas at Dallas

Sun. Dec. 31—NFL title game at home park of Dec. 23 winner.

AFL championship game at Oakland or San Diego. If divisional races end in tie, AFL title game will be Jan. 7.

Sun. Jan. 7—Playoff Bowl NFL in Miami, between losers of Dec. 23-24 games.

Sun. Jan. 14—Super Bowl at Miami between NFL and AFL champions.

Century's Showdown Pits Kelly, Roland

ST. LOUIS (AP) — If St. Louis is to win the National Football League's Century Division title, the Cardinals need three wins but they plan only two more games. They hope the Philadelphia Eagles can supply the third victory.

Second-place St. Louis meets division leader Cleveland in St. Louis Sunday and a Browns victory would close out the division race. If St. Louis, now 6-5-1, can beat Cleveland, 8-4, and return, the Eagles whip Cleveland the following Sunday the Cardinals would back into the title if they can beat New York.

The Cleveland-St. Louis battle Sunday will find the league's top two ground gainers opposing each other. The Browns' Leroy Kelly is the NFL's top rusher and already has topped the 1,000-yard mark. St. Louis will counter with John Roland, a second-year man just 161 yards shot of the 1,000-yard mark.

Roland already is the third-highest ground gainer in Cardinal history and has a good chance to join John David Crow as the only Cardinal ever to gain 1,000 yards or more in a single season.

Coach Charley Winner of the Cardinals holds Cleveland in high respect, especially the Browns powerful running game.

"Their line blocking improved and they're a well-coached, well-drilled outfit," Winner said.

"The Browns often do just enough to win," Winner continued. "And they're smelling it now—the championship money. They said a few weeks ago they'd be in it and it's going to be a hard job to knock them out of it."

East All-Star Team In Shrine Game Set

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Some of the brightest stars of the 1967 collegiate season are included on the East squad announced Wednesday night for the 43rd annual East-West Shrine football game at Candlestick Park Dec. 30.

The selections, announced by Ted Balliet, potentate of Islam Temple, which sponsors the charity classic, are from 21 schools, including Memphis State and Virginia Tech for the first time.

Quarterbacks for the East will be Jimmy Raye, the Michigan State scrambler, and Gary Davis, the Vanderbilt slinger.

The offense will be built around Larry Csonka, Syracuse fullback, bolstered by halfbacks Dale Brady of Memphis State and Bennie Garnto of South Carolina and ends Robert Taylor of Navy, Jim Bierne of Purdue and Ken Barefoot of Virginia Tech.

The massive defensive unit will feature a front line of Kevin Hardy of Notre Dame; Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State; Lance Olsen of Wisconsin; and John Williams, Minnesota, 6-2, 253.

Tackles, Dennis Byrd, North Carolina State, 6-4, 250; Lance Olsen, Purdue, 6-5, 257.

Linebackers, Mike McGill, Notre Dame, 6-2 225; James Byrns, Army, 6-2, 205; Randall Edmunds, Georgia Tech, 6-2 220.

Defensive Backs, Mark Holmes, Georgia, 5-9, 180; Tom Garretson, Northwestern, 6-2, 205; Ron Bass, Illinois, 6 feet, 193; Frank Lloria, Virginia Tech, 5-10, 180.

Safety, Tom Schoen, Notre Dame, 5-11, 178.

Jets Snatch Ab Haynes From Dolphins

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Jets picked up running back Abner Haynes from the Miami Dolphins for the $100 waiver price Wednesday.

Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Jets said, "We are pleased to get Abner, who should give us some help to the outside. Right now we are thinking of him primarily as a punt and kickoff return man."

Haynes, 29, spent five years with the Denver-Kansas City team, moved to Denver for 1965 and 1966 and was traded to Miami last summer.

At Miami, Haynes carried the ball 56 times for 274 yards, a 4.9-yard average, scoring two touchdowns. He also caught 16 passes for 101 yards and returned 22 kickoffs for 444 yards.

The 6-foot, 190-pound former North Texas State star, was both Player of the Year and Rookie of the Year in 1960, the first season of the American Football League. In 1962 he scored 19 touchdowns, a pro record, for the Dallas Texans.

New Mexico Teams 1st On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — New Mexico colleges produced national titleholders in total offense and passing, the final major-college football statistics disclosed Wednesday.

Sal Olivas, New Mexico State's senior quarterback, captured the total offense championship while Terry Stone, New Mexico's junior quarterback, was the passing leader.

Olivas gained 2,184 yards. The 6-foot-1, 200-pounder from El Paso, Tex., took over first place on the next-to-last weekend of the campaign and finished 110 yards ahead of runner-up Kim Hammond of Florida State.

Hammond totaled 2,074 yards and was followed by Mike Phipps of Purdue, 2,020; John Schneider of Toledo, 2,012, and John Cartwright, star of Navy's 19-14 triumph over Army, 1,981.

Stone wound up with 160 completions in 336 attempts. Jimmy Poole of Davidson placed second with 157 completions. Olivas was third with 156. Mike Livingston of Southern Methodist, who missed three early-season games, finished fourth with 152.

Final Sweepstakes Winners Announced

The winners in the final week of the Anderson Bread Company's Football Sweepstakes Contest have been announced. Receiving two tickets each for the Pittsburgh Steelers-Washington Redskins game on December 10 are James Walter and A. Robert Voegel of Warren, James Salnes of Clearmont, Neil Misra of Oil City, Mrs. Joseph Burke of Franklin and Mont Bixard of Clarion.

Landry Blames Don Meredith for Loss

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry said Wednesday his team was better than Baltimore although it lost and that "we can beat anybody left."

He was not discouraged over the 23-17 defeat to Baltimore last Sunday, at which time the Cowboys backed into the championship of the National Football League Capitol Division.

"Our defense was terrific but our offense just hasn't made the progress I wanted," he said. "You will have to blame Don Meredith for the loss. He had no reason to throw that last pass that was intercepted and led to our defeat. But we had the best team. Even Baltimore admitted it was lucky to win."

Landry said failure of the offense to come up to standard had been the main trouble with the team this year and he attributed most of that to the fact that quarterback Meredith has been injured and is just now rounding into shape.

He rated Green Bay No. 1, Baltimore No. 2, Los Angeles No. 3 and Dallas No. 4 in the NFL at this time.

Green Bay already has clinched the Central Division title but Baltimore still may have to beat Los Angeles to win the Coastal Division and become Green Bay's opponent in the playoff for the Western Division title.

Cleveland leads the Century Division by 1½ games with two to play and seems most likely to be Dallas' opponent in the Eastern Conference playoff.

Landry wouldn't predict that Dallas would beat Philadelphia here Sunday although the game means nothing in the championship race, and he figured that if split end Bob Hayes, the great pass-receiver, is unable to play that the Cowboys might take a licking.

Hayes suffered a bruised leg muscle against Baltimore. The injury is not serious, but it may be too painful for Hayes to play Sunday.

"Philadelphia is a capable team offensively and can score a lot of points," said Landry. A crowd of 55,000 or more is expected when the teams square off in the Cotton Bowl Sunday at 1 p.m. (CST).

Boston College Coach Jim Miller Resigns

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Jim Miller resigned as head football coach at Boston College Wednesday after the Jesuit institution declined to give him a new three-year contract.

Miller had one year left on his present contract. The college said he asked for the new one, but that "Boston College could not see its way to grant Miller's request at this time."

Miller had a six-year record at Boston College of 34 victories and 24 defeats but had won only eight while losing 12 during the last two seasons.

Miller is 47 and a native of Massillon, Ohio.

Rams Playing 'Must' Game vs. Green Bay

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Week after week, Coach George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams has been saying:

"We've got to do it ourselves. We can't depend on anyone else doing it for us."

So the Rams head into another ultra-crucial game here Saturday with the world champion Green Bay Packers, a contest which will be televised nationally.

Los Angeles must win or forget about a division, conference or NFL championship.

At least that is the sound reasoning of Allen and the Rams because none of them expect a miracle from the New Orleans Saints in their visit Sunday to Baltimore to play the unbeaten Colts, who are one game in front of the Rams in the Coastal Division.

Green Bay has already nailed down the top spot in the Central Division and is set to meet either Baltimore or the Rams at Milwaukee Dec. 23 for the Western Conference title.

A Ram victory over Green Bay would then bring the division struggle right down to the final game of the regular season with Johnny Unitas and the Colts here Dec. 17.

This week-by-week crisis has continued unabated since Los Angeles dropped its only game of the year, to the San Francisco 49ers, 27-24.

In succession, quarterback Roman Gabriel and the Rams tied Baltimore and Washington and won the next six against Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Detroit and two with Atlanta.

Coach Vince Lombardi's Packers fled the cold of Wisconsin early this week and are drilling on the campus at the University of California at Santa Barbara, 100 miles up the coast. The Rams can hardly expect the Packers to take things easily simply because they have won their division. Lombardi doesn't believe in such a philosophy.

The situation was similar a year ago. Green Bay was "in," and the Rams had a shot to make the Playoff Bowl. The Rams were favored by five points. Green Bay won, 27-23, in a game that was not as close as the score indicates.

Oddly enough, the latest odds favored the Rams, again by five points.

Both the Green Bay and Baltimore games are already sell-outs in a stadium which, for Ram games, is spaced to seat some 74,000. There will be no television in the Los Angeles area Saturday.

Red Wings, Rangers In 3-3 Tie

NEW YORK (AP) — Norm Ullman's third period goal earned the Detroit Red Wings a 3-3 deadlock with the New York Rangers Wednesday night in a National Hockey League game.

The tie kept the third-place Wings one point ahead of New York in the NHL's East Division race.

Ullman scored the tying goal midway in the final period, sending a rebound home after Ranger goalie Ed Giacomin stopped Bruce MacGregor's shot.

Gordie Howe's rebound shot, from a goalmouth scramble tied it 2-2 early in the period but Reg Fleming sent the Rangers in front one minute later on a deflection of Wayne Hillman's drive from the point.

Stunned by Alex Delvecchio's goal in the second minute of play and outshot 18-4 in the opening period, the Rangers bounced back for a 2-1 second period lead on goals by Don Marshall and Jean Ratelle.

Marshall intercepted a pass, swept in on Detroit goalie Roy Edwards and scored on his own rebound, at the 14:49 mark. Less than 1 1/2 minutes later Ratelle slammed the go-ahead goal past Edwards.

Edwards, a 30-year-old rookie, was brilliant in the Wings' cage, stopping 30 shots over the last two periods. Giacomin finished with 31 saves in the Ranger nets.

76ers Edge Royals as Billy Stars

CINCINNATI (AP) — Billy Cunningham popped in 15 fourth-quarter points to bring the Philadelphia 76ers' from an 18-point deficit to a 108-107 National Basketball Association victory Wednesday night.

Cunningham connected on six of nine field goals and helped the 76ers take their first lead in the game early in the final quarter.

Cunningham later gave Philadelphia a 102-98 lead on two jump shots within 18 seconds. Jerry Lucas pulled down a rebound with 15 seconds to go with the Royals trailing 108-107. But Lucas was forced to fire up a 25-foot desperation shot that missed.

Cincinnati built up its big lead early in the second quarter behind Oscar Robertson who finished with a game-high 31 points.

SINCE SALUKIS HAVE GONE BIG TIME ...

San Diego State Picked As Top Small Cage Team

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southern Illinois' new designation as a major-college basketball team has thrust several others of last year's leading small-college teams into the national spotlight.

Kentucky Wesleyan, runner-up to the Salukis in last year's final poll; San Diego State, Indiana State and dark horse Southwestern Louisiana are included in the group vying for more recognition now that Southern Illinois is out of the small-college picture.

San Diego State heads the first Associated Press small-college poll of the 1967-68 campaign followed by Kentucky Wesleyan, Indiana State, Trinity, Tex. and Akron.

Evansville, Cheyney State, Winston-Salem, Southwestern Louisiana and Long Island University round out the Top Ten in that order.

Southern Illinois, given major status by the U.S. Basketball Writers Association on the basis of a tougher schedule this season, took virtually all small-college honors and a major one, too, last year.

The Salukis won 24 games and lost only to a couple of big guys, Louisville and Southern Methodist, finished on top in the final poll and then swept to the post-season National Invitation Tournament title in Madison Square Garden.

San Diego State, which has topped the small-college football poll the past two years,

Ron Michael and Ken Rump, both guards, each scored 11 points for Villa Madonna.

Market Shows Some Strength

NEW YORK—Undercurrents of strength, particularly in lower-priced issues, were present Wednesday in a busy but generally indecisive stock market.
Closing prices on the New York Exchange showed a small margin of winners over losers—686 to 606—and leading market averages finished at their highest levels of the day.
Gains of a point or more in a few blue-chip issues carried the Dow-Jones Industrial Average to a closing high of 892.28, up 4.16 points. Its falls, however, dropped 1.50 to 234.71.
Broader based market indicators also finished at their highest levels of the day, but showed relatively smaller gains, partly because of weakness in utility and railroad components.
The exchange's composite index advanced 0.20 point to 53.11 and Standard & Poor's rose 0.41 point to 95.64. The New York Times combined average rose 2.98 points to 521.91.
Turnover on the Big Board amounted to 11.94 million shares, 1 million below Tuesday. Stocks that closed higher almost doubled the turnover in issues that declined.
Of the 15-most-active stocks, 11 gains and 4 declined. Nine of the actively traded issues were priced below 30.
The list was headed by Ben-guet Consolidated, the Philippine gold mining concern. Its volume of 387,300 shares included 7 blocks that added up to 73,100. The stock closed at a new high of 7 1/2, up 1/4.
Brunswick, second most-active with 295,100 shares traded, moved up 3/4 to a new high of 15 1/2.
Spartans Industries, which operates a group of discount department stores, added 2 1/2 to 25 1/4. Its volume of 216,600 shares included three blocks totaling 68,000 shares.
United Engineering and Foundry scored a new high at 28 1/2 and closed at 27 1/2, up 2 1/2, on turnover of 180,100 shares.
The company's management has indicated opposition to a possible talk over bid from the Vernitro Corporation, which earlier this week disclosed that it had acquired about 5 per cent of United's 2.5 million outstanding shares.
Glen Alden added 1 1/4 to 15 on a revival of rumors of a possible merger of the company with Schenley Industries, the liquor company. Schenley stock rose 4 1/4 to 50. A spokesman for Glen Alden, which has interests in textiles, apparel, motion picture theaters and building materials, declined to comment on the rumors.
Other lower-priced issues on the most-active list included American Photocopy, which rose 1/2 to 12 1/2, and American Motors, which finished at 13 1/4 down 1/4.

The Kennedys and McCarthy

WASHINGTON—"What is it, really?" is everyone's question about the pseudo-presidential candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. Is this candidacy, in other words, merely a way of giving McCarthy's restless ego a happy run in the yard, or is it a concealed anti-Johnson enter-prise of the formidable Kennedy brothers?

A lot depends on the answer to the fore-coming questions. In the California primary, for instance, McCarthy is rated a fair bet to win -- provided he does not permit all the local Democratic Party's cranks and extremists to festoon themselves around his neck, as they will surely try to do.

Even in New Hampshire,

where he has not yet announced (probably because he is having trouble lining up the right delegate slate) McCarthy might well get somewhere with the right tactics. It is a Hawtish but very small state. Weeks of earnest, obscure handshaking in the small towns might turn the trick for McCarthy, whereas a few supereloquent anti-Vietnam speeches, before far-out university audiences, are almost sure to kill him dead in New Hampshire.

If the Kennedy organization is managing McCarthy behind-the-scenes, he is likely to avoid the tempting mistakes and to do the hard but vote-getting things in both New Hampshire and California. But given his own character and proclivities, McCarthy is pretty certain to do most of the wrong things and to neglect the right things if he is on his own.

To complicate the matter further, there is the fact, on the one hand, that McCarthy has openly presented himself as a mere stalking-horse for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. And there is the fact, on the other hand, that McCarthy has always quite openly loathed the Kennedys and holds the record for vicious bitterness against John F. Kennedy during the late President's lifetime.

The answer to the riddle to date is clearly to be sought in the Kennedy's family fief, the state of Massachusetts, where McCarthy already has indicated he will enter the primary. This happens to have been the one thing Robert Kennedy asked Mc-Carthy NOT to do, in their only serious talk before the latter's formal announcement of his candidacy.

Political protection of President Johnson was, of course, not among the Kennedy motives for telling McCarthy to leave the family fief alone. One motive was simply the desire to avoid all sorts of trouble and embarrassment for the current leader of the field, Sen. Edward Kennedy. But the main motive was the Kennedy conviction that Massachusetts is also a Hawtish state, where McCarthy is bound to be defeated pretty badly.

Mainly because the Kennedys did not want McCarthy in Massachusetts, the able political adviser of the late President, Kenneth O'Donnell, also refused to serve as McCarthy's Massachusetts campaign manager. And the Kennedy assessment of their own state's viewpoint was seemingly confirmed by a recent meeting of the State Democratic Committee.

At this meeting, a resolution supporting the President on Vietnam secured a very heavy majority--45 to 4, with three abstentions--of the unusually large turn-out of committee members.

In brief, McCarthy does not have the problem in Massachusetts that he has in New Hampshire, of rounding up a respectable delegate slate. His own name can simply be put on the ballot, without further ado, to attract anyone who is anti-Johnson or anti-Vietnam or both. Edward Kennedy has refused to stand as a favorite son against McCarthy. And with none to oppose him directly, McCarthy might get a considerable vote, even while the organization's convention delegates were also winning.

At this juncture, moreover, the Massachusetts evidence can only be regarded as decisive for the present. For the future, one can never completely discount the aspect of Robert Kennedy's political behavior which an unhappy admirer has described as resembling that of "a man in a cage who just won't listen to Niagara Falls downriver."

He has repeatedly done the politically sensible thing, as when he announced, with no qualifications, that he would support President Johnson in 1968. Almost as repeatedly, he has thereafter let himself be pushed or cajoled into doing less sensible things, as when he qualified his stand on Mr. Johnson in connection with the McCarthy candidacy.

He knows--none better--the danger of the fate of Theodore Roosevelt in 1912, or worse still, the fate of Henry A. Wallace in 1948. That was what was meant by "Niagara Falls," in the remark above-quoted. But if the McCarthy candidacy begins to seem to offer real advantages to Robert Kennedy, he is going to have to resist enormous pressures, from all sorts of silly and far from disinterested persons, in order to refrain from scooping up those seeming advantages.

Tidioute Man Escapes Injury

A Tidioute man escaped injury in a one-car traffic mishap early Tuesday morning in Tionesta.

State police said a car operated by Charles Gamble, Elm street, Tidioute, crossed Route 62, went over a curb and knocked over a route sign. The vehicle, police stated, continued on across the yard of M.A. Carlinger, ripped out bushes and crashing into the porch of the home where it knocked over a porch post.

The Gamble car, according to police, continued on, crossing May street and finally came to rest on a sidewalk.

Gamble told police he fell asleep.

THE NEW CHURCH ON GUAM

An architect's drawing shows how the new Episcopal Church of St. John the Divine on Guam will look when completed. One-tenth of the cost has been provided by a grant from Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church under the recent vestry decision to use income from the church's endowment fund for the support of the church throughout the world rather than for the parish itself.

ON ISLAND OF GUAM

Warren Episcopalians Help Build Church

A far-reaching decision was arrived at by the vestry of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church in June of 1965.

The results of that decision will be felt throughout the diocese of Erie, the nation, the world — wherever the Episcopal Church is established or has a missionary outpost. Trinity Church in Warren will be known by countless thousands of people.

Indeed, today a church is being constructed on the island of Guam with the aid of funds provided by a grant from Trinity Church. The Warren church has just completed a pledge of $6,000 for this work and received a letter of appreciation from the Rt. Rev. Harry S. Kennedy, Bishop of Honolulu.

Members of Trinity take a personal interest in this church in the South Pacific for their rector, the Rev. Richard H. Baker, was stationed there for four years.

The decision reached by the vestry, which made the grant to St. John's Church, Guam, possible was to use the income from Trinity's endowment fund for the benefit of the Episcopal Church throughout the world rather than for purely parish purposes.

Except for a limited annual pledge to the church and a small amount set aside for maintenance, this income is allocated to worthy projects by a grants committee. Distribution of funds this year included, in addition to the $6,000 for the church on Guam, $3,500 for the department of missions, diocese of Erie, $1,000 for a scholarship for a student at Virginia Theological Seminary; and $2,500 for distribution among institutions, training programs and other benevolent purposes — a total of $13,000 in all.

The grants committee is composed of the rector and six members of the church elected by the vestry on a rotating basis. Lay people on the committee this year are Donald E. Conaway, Mrs. Margaret Lewis, Harold A. Johnson, Walter Rogers, Mrs. Florence Gilbert and Franklin Schumacher.

The vestry considers the decision to distribute this income in the manner of a charitable trust a venture in faith.

The rector agrees that Trinity's very substantial endowment fund offers a unique opportunity to express Christian concern and witness and to stimulate, through example by distribution of income, a more active spirit of Christian stewardship throughout the Church and its membership. It was, in fact, this decision on the part of the vestry which strongly persuaded him to accept a call to the church.

He is gratified that a sizeable grant was made to the church in Guam. During his four years there he came to know the needs of the people and to see the Church's potential to grow and to serve.

Ten years ago services for a small group of Christians on Guam, many of them non-Episcopalians, were held in a quonset hut synagogue chapel. Today, on the island, there are a vicarage, parish hall, school for grades one through nine, and plans for a typhoon-proof chapel.

It was in 1957 that a request from Father Baker for overseas duty coincided with a desire of Bishop Kennedy to see the Episcopal Church established on the island.

Bishop Kennedy had been a regular visitor to Guam from the diocese of Honolulu. Father Baker had four years experience in missionary work on Grand Island, between Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

When the Bakers first arrived on Guam—he took with him his wife and three children—attention was first directed toward the military administration and civilians. Three-quarters of those who attended services in the synagogue chapel were not Episcopalians.

Even the gecko lizards, it is said, looked askance when the trusting, hardy individuals of the Episcopal Church on Guam answered the Lord's call to build and serve where they felt they were needed.

Within a year, however, interest in the church had grown as had the number of worshippers. A land use survey was made and a site purchased by the Episcopal Church, overlooking Tumon Bay and the Philippine Sea, on which to construct permanent buildings. A quonset hut chapel was built.

Additional structures were erected in 1960-62 and a school started. The Bakers—with two more children born on the island—departed for the states, and the Rev. G.M. Needham was appointed vicar of Guam.

Father Baker became rector of St. Peter's Church in Westfield, N.Y., where he remained until accepting the call to Trinity in 1966. Through the years, however, he has kept in close touch with the church on Guam and is enthusiastic about the progress made.

That progress was not without difficulties, however. In 1962 came a blow that would have defeated many. The quonset hut chapel and school it had brought into being were reduced to rubble by Typhoon Karen. The Marines supplied tents, but Typhoon Olive destroyed the tents.

With the assistance of the National Episcopal Church and Guam's community, the school was rebuilt. The Marines, the Air Force and the Navy, men and women, all pitched in to help.

Responding to Guam's most pressing need after Typhoons Karen and Olive, the rebuilding of the church was postponed so that the children could be served through the creation of an ever-larger school dedicated to providing first rate education. The junior high school was added in 1964.

Today there are 248 children of every faith from Guam's multi-racial background attending grades one through nine. The curriculum is adopted from Hawaii's famed Iolani School. There are 12 teachers and a staff of seven.

Now it is felt that the time has come to build the church. This past Christmas, people spilled out of the chapel, stood in the clattering, busy kitchen, look-

QUONSET HUT CHAPEL

In 1957, a small group of Christians on Guam worshiped in a quonset hut that had been converted to a chapel. It was there that the Rev. Richard H. Baker, now rector of Trinity Memorial Episcopal Church, early realized the potential for growth of the Episcopal Church on the island.

GUAMANIAN STUDENTS

Over 200 children of every faith from Guam's multi-racial background now attend the school on the island established by the Episcopal Church. Grades one through nine are taught by 12 faculty members.

ing through the serving window and filled the lunch room adjacent to the chapel, at both the school pageant and the regular church services.

A drive is underway to provide the new typhoon-proof church, which has been designed to incorporate the native Micronesian style so harmonious with the isle. The grant from Trinity will provide one-tenth of the cost.

Trinity's grant committee was happy to allocate $6,000 to the drive because through Father Baker's continuing interest in the work of the Church on Guam they will be kept informed of progress made on the island.

The bishop welcomes the support from Warren. "It means so much to all St. John's people," he wrote in his letter, "to have your support and concern."

The official name of the church is The Episcopal Church of St. John the Divine. Serving on the island now are the Rev. Jordan B. Peck Jr. and his wife, Dr. Maryly Peck.

The Warren grant is one of many made this year and to be made in the future which will see the income from Trinity's endowment fund helping the church both here and abroad.

The decision to use the money in this way also places Trinity on a par with other churches not so amply endowed.

As the rector put it in a recent newsletter, a fund of this nature can involve the grave risk of fostering complacency among parish membership. With the vestry wisely deciding to use the money for worthy causes elsewhere, Trinity's members now fully support their church and play ever increasing roles in its activities.

KINZUA COUNTRY REPORT

Holmes Provides Outdoor Writers With Reports on Kinzua Country

By DON NEAL

What's new in Kinzua Country?

This question so often asked by outdoor writers in other parts of the state is being answered by Bob Holmes, local service station operator, through a weekly mailing he makes to some twenty-plus newspapers and radio personalities in localities where news of Kinzua Country is most likely to be appreciated.

In addition to writers and commentators located in the western part of Pennsylvania, the reports are also sent to Buffalo, Cleveland and Youngstown.

How well the reports are being received, although the third mailing is just being made this week, is evidenced by the replies Bob has had to date.

Roger Latham, outdoor writer of the Pittsburgh Press, wrote, "I certainly am interested in a periodic report from you. I am sure I won't be able to use all of the generalized material but certainly I can pick up items of interest as you report them."

Don Wimer, the genial host of the Sportsman's Den on WISR, Butler, Pa., and WTIC, Massillon, Ohio, wrote, "I received your weekly report on November 15th on 'Kinzua Country' and used it in my broadcast on November 19th. Thanks a lot. Many sportsmen from this area pursue their sports in your area and are interested in such reports. I will be happy to use them."

And Gene Shaw, editor of Outdoor People, the official magazine of the Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsman's Clubs, topped all expectations by running the report in a by-lined column titled, Report From Kinzua Country.

Holmes is extremely happy that his self-propelled project is showing these early signs of success. He admits, offhandedly, that through it he may sell an extra gallon or two of gas, but goes on to insist that just being active in promoting the tremendous recreational potential of Kinzua Country is his prime interest, and greatest reward.

SOCIAL Wanderings

by Marion Honhart

THE HISTORY OF THE ADVENT WREATH is an interesting one, and for others who, besides myself, have wondered, the Rev. James M. McCormick, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, sent in the following information: It is a centuries-old Christian German custom and the four candles represent the 4000 years the world traditionally awaited in darkness the coming of Christ. Three of the candles are usually lavender, symbolizing penitence; the fourth is rose, symbolizing the third or joyful Sunday of Advent. To make a wreath you'll need pine boughs, candles and a base of plastic foam—or twist a wire coat hanger into a circle, wrap it in a frame of chicken wire and insert the greenery and candles. Another method is to use a round, fairly shallow ring mold about ten inches in diameter, fill with soil or sand and insert holly, greenery and the candles which may be trimmed with purple ribbons. The wreath is often used as a table centerpiece in the dining room. According to custom, one candle is lighted the first Sunday and extinguished after a brief ceremony which may include a family prayer, an Advent hymn or a verse from Scripture; an additional candle is lighted each week thereafter. On Christmas Eve, replace the candles with red ones and use the wreath as part of the holiday house decorations.

The Dennie J. Di Pierros Honored On 25th Anniversary

Hosting a reception honoring the silver wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dennie J. DiPierro, on Sunday, December 3, at the Glade Township Fire Hall were Mr. and Mrs. John DiPierro, Miss Anzietta DiPierro, Joseph and Thomas DiPierro. Soft background music was provided by the Al Lucia Combo and decorations were carried out in silver and white streamers and wedding bells. Guest tables were centered with white tapers, arranged with silver foliage and pink lacy bows. An attractively arranged table, prepared by the children, had for its theme "Memories of Mom and Dad", with two poster-type albums with photos of childhood, family, courtship days, wedding and many anniversaries. Also on display were the bride's wedding gift of a sterling silver rosary, the first anniversary gift, and photos of other special occasions, the bride's bouquet and groom's boutonniere, and many other mementos of the twenty-five years.

Mrs. DiPierro greeted guests seated in an ice blue satinback silk jacket ensemble to which was pinned a pink and silver sweetheart rosebud corsage, the gift of her husband, Mary Ellen Mahood, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mahood, was united in marriage to Dennie J. DiPierro, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John DiPierro of Ridgeway, in a double ring ceremony on November 17, 1942, in St. Joseph Church on Beech street.

Warren. The Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the Rev. Arthur Leon, assistant pastor. The honored couple were pleasantly surprised with the appearance of the Sweet Adelines Chorus, of which Mrs. DiPierro is a charter member. They sang a number of appropriate selections for the occasion. A buffet luncheon was served from a table centered with an arrangement of white mums, silver foliage highlighted with a silver "25", and a silver candelabra at either end. Mrs. Andrew Musante, maid of honor at her sister's wedding 25 years ago, and Miss Anzietta DiPierro presided at the tea table. The four tier anniversary cake, ornamented in silver and pink, was cut and served by Mrs. Joseph Picardi, the Misses Jane and Margaret Musante served punch, and Mrs. John DiPierro had charge of the guest book. All had corsages of pink and silver rose corsages.

'Something Old, Something New' For White House Bride

(c) N.Y. Times News Service WASHINGTON—Lynda Bird Johnson will wear a 142-year-old pin of gold and seed pearls for her White House wedding next Saturday to Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb.

The "something old" that brides traditionally carry was given to the President's daughter by Mrs. Frances Hudspeeth of Austin, Tex. Mrs. Hudspeeth was Miss Johnson's counselor during the three years the President's daughter was a student at the University of Texas.

The two-inch shawl pin was worn by a Miss Julia Jackson at a party given in honor of General Lafayette in Augusta, Ga., on March 24, 1825. It was later passed on to Mrs. Hudspeeth by a Jackson descendant.

It will be sewn into Miss Johnson's dress for the wedding ceremony. The White House announced that jewelry is not appropriate for the style of the bridal gown.

The wedding gown will be LPNA Has Annual Christmas Party

The December meeting of the Warren County Division of Licensed Practical Nurses Association of Pennsylvania was conducted by Mrs. Mary Lee Dyke, president, on Monday evening in Trinity Memorial Parish House. After the business meeting, the annual Christmas party was held with the exchange of Christmas gifts.

Refreshments of Christmas tradition were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Evelyn Haines, Mrs. Evelyn Greenawald and Mrs. Mary Saylor. The table was appointed in the season's colors of red and green with matching tapers and arrangements of the symbols of Christmas.

Earlier in the evening the charter had been draped in memory of a deceased member, Mrs. Alyce Wholeben.

Wedding Note

For the marriage of Cathy Louise Swanson and Link Warren Lee on November 25, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Carl R. Nelson, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church assisted by the Rev. Robert Olson, uncle of the bride.

Barbershoppers School At Beauty

The air will ring with the sound of barbershop harmony this weekend as the Warren Chapter of Sweet Adelines, Inc. host a Capsule Music School at Beauty Jr. High School tomorrow. Attending the school will be five other Sweet Adelines Chapters from Erie, Meadville, Jamestown, Olean, and Elmira.

Sweet Adelines, Inc. is a women's singing organization whose main purpose for existence is to train members in the art of singing four-part harmony known in grandmother's day as "barbershop". Being one of only three original American singing art forms (the other two are negro spirituals and "cowboy"), barbershop harmony is truly Early Americana and part of our heritage.

This weekend's school capsule music school is one of the 55 in the offering for the 1967-68 Education Series sponsored by the International Organization and will be conducted by well qualified Sweet Adelines faculty members.

Right Name Is Important

What's in a name? Plenty, the experts suggest. A Percival, by any other name, may have an easier time in life.

So, if you are thinking up a name for the latest addition to the family, take your time and choose carefully. It could be just as important as having your health insurance up to date, or your bank balance in the black.

Names are more significant than most people realize, according to a recent study conducted by Barbara A. Buchanan of Pennsylvania State University, and Dr. James L. Brumling of Ohio University.

A child tends to identify with his name, and, so the report suggests, reacts according to whether his companions approve or disapprove.

The name-detectives report that Michael, James and Wendy were found to be relatively high in approval, while Alfred, Percival and Horace rated low.

A boy with what used to be called a sissy name, may have to overcome a name which is disliked by both sexes, a name that connotes low masculinity or a name whose owner is expected to be passive.

On the other hand, a child with a name which rates high in approval by both men and women, such as Michael, starts out with a name liked by both sexes, a name that is considered masculine, and a name that connotes activity.

Other researchers have found that children with peculiar names are more likely to suffer emotional disturbances than children having ordinary names, with boys showing a higher rate of disturbance than girls.

"In the United States, for example, boys named Chauncey, Horace, Aloysius, Percy or Cuthbert are expected to be somewhat effeminate," the recent report states.

What does all this mean to expectant parents?

Well, unless you are naming Horace after a rich uncle, don't.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When homosexuals ask if they should get married for any reason whatever tell them: "NO." Right now I am trying to figure out what to say to my wife. She knows something is wrong but she has no idea what the real problem is. I've started to tell her a dozen times but I can't get the words out.

Don't say I need psychiatric help. I have no desire to be straight. I just want out of this marriage. I'm being unfair to my wife and it is giving me a terrific guilt complex. She wants a family. I don't. I am happy only when I'm with my gay crowd. I thought marriage would "cure" me but I was wrong. I even went out cruising on our honeymoon.

Some people say writing the problem down on paper often produces a solution but it didn't for me. Tell me what to do, — A GUY

DEAR GUY: Hand your wife this column and tell her you are the "Guy."

There's a good chance that the marriage could be annulled. See a lawyer. If an annulment is out, a divorce is the answer. The sooner you free your wife to live a normal life with a man who can give her love and children, the better.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Today I vowed to clean out my attic. I started out brimming with energy. I planned to get the job done by 5:00 p. m. Well, I ran into a box of letters from my old sweetheart (the man I nearly married) and there I sat for four and a half hours. I ended up burning the letters but had I been a troublemaker I could have done otherwise. The man who wrote the letters is now a prominent citizen in this community and his face would be fire-engine red if I had shown them around.

The moral of my story is: Don't put anything in a letter that might sit in someone's attic for 25 years. — GALLANT LADY

DEAR GALLANT: Sounds as if the letters were fairly sizzling, which raises this question: Why do you congratulate yourself for destroying them? Had you shown them around you'd have wound up looking pretty scarlet yourself, Toots.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A great deal is said these days about international relations. What about people-to-people relations? What has become of those fine old qualities called kindness and courtesy? Once upon a time these two ingredients were essential to business success.

Today when you ask a waitress for service she tells you she only has two hands or she makes some other rude remark. Carrier boys throw your paper in the bushes, on the roof or in the mud and you can like it or lump it. Sales people are mouthy and indifferent. A promise to deliver merchandise means nothing. If you don't want to accept the merchandise when it comes, someone else will.

Miss Douglas is a Senior at Indiana High School. Mr. Smith, a graduate of Eisenhower High School, class of 1966, is serving in the U.S. Navy and stationed aboard the U.S.S. Uvalde. No date has been set for the wedding.

Why do we let 'em get away with it? What's the answer? — DISGUSTED IN TAMPA

DEAR TAMPA: Today we are experiencing a seller's market. This is one of the penalties we pay for prosperity. Jobs are plentiful. Good help is in short supply. More people have more of everything — except initiative and pride in achievement.

Nevertheless, I do not buy your sweeping generalities. There are still some courteous waitresses, gentle sales people and industrious carrier boys around. Granted not as high a percentage as there used to be, but if you speak kindly you'll find them.

Confidential to The Maharani of Chicago Heights: Tell the Maharaja that cleaning the bathtub after one's self is no big deal—it's simply good manners. Just because people are related does not give them the right to be inconsiderate of one another.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage — What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Opening lead Six of ♠. When his partner passed, South abandoned hopes for a slam and chose to overcall directly with four hearts after East opened the bidding with one spade. If the opposition elected to persist in spades, he was prepared to deal with them.

West opened the six of spades, the ten was played from dummy and East followed with the deuce. It was not safe to lead a second spade thru East with trumps outstanding, so South proceeded to cash his three high hearts. When the jack remained outstanding, West was given his trump trick.

West shifted to the ten of diamonds and North played the ace. The jack of spades was led and covered by East's queen and declarer's king. South was unable to gain access to the dummy to take another finesse against the nine of spades, and he ended up one trick short on the deal.

East made a fine play in ducking the first round of spades, however declarer had it in his power to assure his contract against any defense. All he has to do is to play the seven of spades from the dummy instead of the ten.

If East covers the seven with the nine, South wins the trick with the king. Trumps are drawn in four rounds and the ace of diamonds provides reentry to the dummy subsequently to repeat the spade finesse against East's queen.

If East permits the seven of spades to win the first trick the final outcome will be the same. The key to victory for South is to take the deep finesse against the nine of spades initially. The queen can be picked up just as conveniently later in the play.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars. FOR THURSDAY, DECEMBER 7, 1967

ARIES (March 21 to April 20)—Favorable influences place you in a highly propitious spot for gains if you will exercise your know-how and discretion. Stress accuracy and pay no heed to rumors.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21)—Wait your turn when you should, but be eager, ready for action when the time is ripe. Good stellar aspects encourage you to pursue the difficult with as much assurance as easier tasks.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21)—A new chance to capitalize on your versatility. But mind the snags and usual pitfalls. Don't rush in where angels fear to tread.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23)—Don't wait for advantages now—go seek and meet. In projects involving others, consider the temperaments of all and hold your own emotions in strict check. Thus you can gain the lead.

LEO (July 24 to August 23)—Mixed influences. Question and investigate where there is margin for error. Do not accept suggestions blindly. And do not expect more than is reasonable.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23)—Scattered efforts will confuse, lead you off course. You can win big gains if you buckle down to essentials and STAY with them.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23)—Maintain a business-like approach in serious matters without, however, taking yourself or others too seriously. Challenges now indicated that should uplift, give you new, better ideas.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 23)—Wait for need.

How to Keep Well

TRANQUILIZER GUN
Dangerous animals are put to sleep with dart-shooting anesthetic guns. Leopards, lions, and tigers are subdued within minutes over television. Psychiatrists at Emory university in Atlanta used a similar technique on 10 volunteer medical students. Morphine containing darts were fired into the hip. Two of the men fell asleep within a half hour. The remainder became very groggy.

The Palmer Chemical and Equipment company of Georgia designed the instrument for humans. Gun and darts were patterned after those used by veterinarians and hunters. When the trigger is pulled, liquid carbon dioxide is released into the gun's chamber where it becomes a gas. This in turn propels the dart at low velocity. The dart has a three-quarter inch needle which penetrates human tissue up to its hub. This sets off a tiny explosive which pushes the rubber plunger that injects the material. Effective range of the human dart gun is 10 to 15 yards.

Research is continuing on the best product to use. The drug must act more rapidly than ordinary morphine and tranquilizers. It should be capable of immobilizing the person without harmful side effects. Tests with a supermorphine and CI-551, a new experimental drug, are promising.

Opera Fame Slower Without the Met

By MARY CAMPBELL
NEW YORK (AP)—Norman Treigle is building the near-impossible, a front-ranking American opera career without the Metropolitan Opera.

NORMAN TREIGLE

Critics call Treigle one of the great bass-baritones and one of the great singer-actors. But wide public recognition is coming slowly. Still Treigle pursues the path that he deliberately has chosen.

He has been in the New York City Opera since 1952. Since the first two years of singing secondary roles he has been singing leading roles, in such operas as "Susannah," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Carmen," "Boris Godunov," "Don Giovanni" and "Tales of Hoffmann."

He doesn't want to move to the Met, he says, "because it would be on their terms and I don't like their terms. I don't want to be one of those basses on the Met roster and have to sing whatever they give me. There would be no satisfaction for me in being one of a dozen on a list. My fulfillment comes within myself and what I can contribute. I'm not singing just to pick up a paycheck."

There is that difference between being the New York City Opera's most outstanding male singer and a probable one in a crowd at the Met. Also, Treigle likes the New York City company's philosophy of "total theater" in which acting is much stressed.

The "total theater" concept is what attracted Treigle to the New York City Opera in the first place, while he was singing with the opera company in his native New Orleans. He got to know various companies' singers who appeared as guest artists (as he does now).

One disadvantage in not being at the Met, Treigle says, is that "record companies don't go after you. They think you aren't sellable. It has taken me this long, until I'm 40."

This fall, RCA issued a recording of Handel's "Julius Caesar" by the cast that premiered it at the New York City Opera Company. Treigle sings the title role. It is his first opera recording for a major company. He says:

"It takes waiting, waiting, waiting. Then you get that first record on the market and everybody says, 'Where has he been?' I'm also glad to have made this record because for 20 years people have been calling me an actor. Now they're going to have to listen only. I think I can stand up and sing with the best of them. I think they're finally going to accept me as a voice."

"And a lot of people who never really heard us sing, because they got so interested in the production, will realize that this company really has voices."

"Of course if the public can't separate the actor from the singer, to me that is the greatest compliment I could ever achieve. If the public can enjoy you as a total performer and an opera as an experience of total theater, it's wonderful."

"The old Italian school was just for singing — stand at the footlights. I don't think audiences will buy that any more."

"At the New York City Opera we're trying to win the man in the street, trying to win people who haven't been in an opera house before and don't know what it's all about. That's the way we build our audience. They don't come dedicated to throwing flowers. A lot of people come with the idea they're going to the theater."

About the company's move from the old City Center to the New York State Theater in Lincoln Center, Treigle says, "The company was scared; it was like moving out of an old house where you were born. But we just had to leave. I think we're finally coming into our own, as far as making a real international reputation."

"We have gained a lot from Lincoln Center, as far as prestige goes. And we have probably gained at least 20 per cent of a new audience, and they have stuck."

Treigle, pronounced TRAY-gull, looks like one part that he sings, the bullfighter in "Carmen." He is darkly intense, graceful, starvation thin, 5 feet 11. Resonance rolls out from within that frail-looking frame and Treigle, always actor as well as singer, is entirely effective in a number of differing roles.

He sings the standard bass leads; contemporary composer Carlisle Floyd writes for him; last fall the Baroque "Julius Caesar," starring Treigle and Beverly Sills, was the hit of the season; this fall he sang the king in "Le Coq d'Or."

"It's my first buffo role. It's a real singing part, but the character is a buffo one. It's the first time I've tried a funny fat-man part, with lots of padding, a real doo."

"You can't knock the score. Nobody could write and orchestrate like Rimsky-Korsakov. The company has done operas now and then that I've wanted to do. This is one."

Is it difficult to perform in many different styles? "Not really. I always pick up a part and find it a challenge whatever it happens to be."

As well as the "Julius Caesar" recording, there soon will be a recording out of Treigle singing operatic arias, on Westminster.

And this man who got his early experience in New Orleans instead of in Europe soon will start performing abroad. He'll make his debut at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires, next August in "Julius Caesar." Covent Garden has invited him to sing.

Treigle has, until recently, largely stayed away from publicity. "I think people should have to produce, not just promote their way into something. The American system is geared to publicity. You can sell grass if you publicize it enough."

"But I would like to get the word out about opera — good music, good acting, well done."

Shoppers Flock to Morrison's Fire Sale

By GENIE SMITH
The story of Morrison's, ladies wearing apparel, is like that of the family that didn't plan to give their young son a five-piece drum set with cymbals—and he got one from his aunt in California.
Morrison's wasn't planning to have such a large Christmas sale this year, but they have one—owing to the Liberty street fire in downtown Warren, Nov. 27.
Hundreds of women shoppers and children jammed the ladies wear shop Wednesday morning for a pre-holiday sale that will continue until the entire present stock is depleted.

Most of the merchandise wasn't touched, but owner Kendall Morrison said that, due to the fire at the Savoy Restaurant, which caused his store some smoke and water damage, all clothing in the store must be sold.
So, Wednesday, in Morrison's first day of operation in a week, prices went down from 20 to 90 per cent off, depending upon the articles and the amount of damage.

Fortunately, Morrison's suffered only water and smoke damage, and not to the extent as earlier reported. However, Morrison reported that he will lose "tens of thousands" of dollars by the end of the fire sale because of the reduced prices.
Shoppers gathered outside the shop before it opened at 9 a. m. Because of the large crowd, only a specified number were allowed in at a time.
It was a classical sales scene—clerks passing out merchandise as fast as they could handle it, bargain-hunters shoving for space, masses trying to get in, many trying to get out. One woman caught her leg in the door; another fell in the crowd with her small child.

But for the clerks it was a happy day. As one put it, "It's nice to see people again."
The United Arab Republic comprises only Egypt.

Government a Bit Lax?

By ELIAS N. ANTAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Lebanon's diplomats are usually late for work, its judges don't have enough money to buy the latest lawbooks, postmen burn the mail and tax-dodging is rampant, according to an official report published here.
The Central Inspection Department, an agency with a watchdog role over the government, rapped the administration sharply in its report covering the past two years.

Among its findings:
—"Anarchy" prevailed in the department at the Ministry of Interior in charge of licensing all vehicles in the country. (It can take an entire day of pushing and shoving to renew the license of a private car.) The ministry was also negligent in controlling the work of local municipalities, the report said.
-At the Foreign Ministry, the report said, there was "abuse" in the use of postage stamps and diplomats were coming late for work. In addition, the financial accounts of Lebanon's missions abroad were not coordinated.

-The Ministry of Justice had delayed in repaying financial advances to the government and therefore no new money was being allocated. One result: there was no money to buy judicial periodicals and publications and Lebanon's judges were not keeping themselves up to date.
-Government-run hospitals were using antiquated equipment which in addition was being badly maintained. There aren't enough doctors and nurses and hospitals are poorly administered, it said.

Minister Asks Suit

ERIE—East Side Alderman Michael J. Kinecki may find himself a defendant in a civil rights suit.
The Rev. Rufus Arterberry, a Negro minister, said Tuesday he will send a letter to State Attorney General William Senneker requesting action against Kinecki.
Arterberry promised the action after Kinecki evicted the preacher from his office just before a hearing involving Benny Wall and three Erie policemen. Wall has charged the latter with aggravated assault and Kinecki has reserved his decision following a preliminary hearing.

Kinecki ordered the minister out of his office after Arterberry criticized the alderman's handling of the Wall hearing after charges were filed against the latter.
Arterberry, who classified himself as a civil rights leader, accused Kinecki of promulgating discrimination and prejudice.

AT TITUSVILLE MEETING

"We need people with special skills!... Capable repairmen are desperately needed in the emerging nations and also in the American home!"

Oilmen Get Report on How To Avoid Drilling Dry Holes

TITUSVILLE — A detailed oil industry report designed to prevent drilling of dry holes and to result in more productive wells was presented to oil men of Northwestern Pennsylvania Tuesday.

John K. Tabor, Secretary of Internal Affairs, made the presentation at a meeting attended by more than 40 persons in the auditorium of Drake Well Museum.

The report had been prepared from data in the department's files and from material contributed by oil men of the region. Its author is Dana R. Kelley of Pittsburgh, state geologist.

Kelley accompanied Secretary Tabor in a private airplane flight from Pittsburgh to Franklin. Also present was Arthur W. Socolow, state geologist and head of the state's topographic and geologic survey. Bill Danenberg, public relations advisor, also accompanied the group.

Attached to the report was a chart and a map indicating where drilling was likely to be most productive, marginally productive or non-productive. Other charts of the region were on display on the stage.

The report's title is "Geology of the Red Valley Sandstone in Forest and Venango Counties, Pennsylvania." The Red Valley is the formation which has held the greatest interest for producers and has been the most productive ever since hydrofracturing became a common practice in this region about five years ago.

Information on some of the wells had been given to Internal Affairs by Wolf's Head Oil Refining Co. Inc., Quaker State Oil Refining Corp., Pennzoil Co. and independent producers including Dunn and Baker, Hill, Hoover, Self, Weaver, Saxton and Cussins, Helmerick, Seaton and others.

Although only two counties are mentioned in the title, the report also provides guidelines for oil exploration in Warren and Crawford counties. The document took three years to prepare and cost $25,000.

"Preventing just three dry holes, or the finding of two new profitable wells, would pay for the report," Secretary Tabor said.

The state geologists were assisted by a 19-member advisory committee, whose chairman was Dr. Donald Fraser of Bethlehem Steel. Other members were J. P. Healey as well as conservationists, planners and suppliers to the oil industry.

Secretary Tabor said, "The report is of particular value to the Pennsylvania petroleum industry in that its findings can be used as a direct guide to developing oil exploration programs with the knowledge that the report is based on sound geological research and the results of drilling experience. The report indicates where oil production conditions are favorable, and where they are unfavorable.

"It will help drillers get a better return on their exploration investment and this in turn helps the economy of these counties, and in general aids the economy of Pennsylvania," Secretary Tabor said he selected Titusville in the major oil producing area of the state as the place to release the information because "it was his desire to get the geologic information directly to the people who can use it best."

Titusville also is the spot where the petroleum industry began 108 years ago with the Drake Well. "In all this time, not until the publication of this report has there been a public document on oil for use by independent producers," Sec. Tabor remarked.

Secretary Tabor said "The principles and methods used in defining the economic potential of the oil-productive Red Valley Sandstone are applicable to other similar oil and gas areas in Pennsylvania. And by using these same methods we can conduct other resource appraisals to provide better definitions of commercially worthwhile deposits of coal, clay, limestone and groundwater in Pennsylvania."

The regional occurrence and distribution of this important oil and gas producing sandstone formation which occurs in the subsurface at depths up to 900 feet are described in the report. The origin of the sandstone and the properties of the rock formation that determine its reservoir potential or productive capability also are outlined.

The report identifies those areas that have produced, and can be expected to produce, valuable quantities of oil. It also marks those areas that can produce oil in amounts just over the limit of economic feasibility; and it identifies those areas which are not considered to be commercially productive.

The publication containing the entire report is Bulletin 57. It is available from the Capitol Book Store, Capitol Building, Harrisburg, Pa. 17125, for $1.25 plus 7 cents state tax for Pennsylvania residents.

Oil men were present from Titusville, Warren, Pittsburgh, Irwin, Oil City, State College, Bradford, Pleasantville, Erie, New Kensington, Tidioute, Tionesta and Brookville. For many, the visit was their first to the new Drake Well Museum. The displays drew many favorable comments. Refreshments were served after the meeting in the library.

Curator Alan Perkins arranged for transportation from Franklin to Titusville for those of the party who flew from Pittsburgh.

Warren County's 'Care' Patient Costs Increase

(TMO Harrisburg Bureau)

HARRISBURG — Warren County residents receiving long-term institutional care increased sharply in number during the month of September, as compared with a year ago, records of the State Department of Public Welfare revealed Tuesday.

This is indicated by the fact that long-term institutional care numbered 682 in Warren County during September, according to tabulations just completed by the department, as compared with 117 in September of 1966.

Of these 682 countians currently classified as receiving long-term institutional care, 68 are in nursing homes (66 last year), with the remaining 614 in public institutions under the liberal provisions of the Medical Assistance program (51 last year), sometimes referred to as "Pennsycare". All 614 county residents were in state institutions for mentally ill (51 in 1966).

The 682 Warren County residents in long-term care facilities benefited to the extent of $100,696 during the month, ($22,045 a year ago). Those in nursing homes were paid fixed rates by the state for their maintenance, and those in county institutions had their expenses split 50-50 by the county and federal government.

County residents in nursing homes under public care arrangements include 48 on old age assistance (47 last year),

Two Injured In Accident

Two persons were taken to Warren General Hospital by North Warren ambulance following a 7:50 p.m. traffic accident on Fourth avenue Tuesday.

Injured in the one-car accident were the operator, Wayne D. Munger, 52, of 46 Pearl St., Frewsburg, N.Y., and a passenger, Olive Wald, 38, of 13 Park rd., Warren.

Borough police Sgt. Roger Thein, who investigated, said the Munger vehicle, traveling east on Fourth, failed to keep right and ran squarely into the boulevard. The car, police reported, flew 35 feet through the air and struck a tree.

Munger was cited for reckless driving and damage was estimated at $2,050. Officer Robert Kates assisted at the scene.

Plans to Solve Ghetto Problems

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
SAN FRANCISCO — "You can lower the level of frustration in the ghetto just by making a start on the ghetto's problems," San Francisco's confident, fast-talking mayor-elect, Joseph L. Alioto, has already started putting that idea to the test. This week he announced the appointment of the first Negro ever to serve in San Francisco's "mayor's cabinet," position, is only the second Democrat to elected mayor in this photogenic city of hills, fog and Willie Mays, will be inaugurated on Jan. 8 in a traditional ceremony at the opera house. But this time there will also be road show versions of the oath-taking in the mission district and in the hunter's point area, where Negroes rioted in 1966.

"The ghetto never comes to the opera house," Alioto explains. "So we'll take the inauguration to the ghetto."

The mayor-elect is under no illusions that such gestures solve any problems; but he does believe that they can suggest to the growing Negro and Latin American population here that he cares about the ghetto and its residents—that he might even do something about the jobs, housing and schools that they need and that many other San Franciscans are reluctant to provide or pay for.

This is not, by New York standards, a truly ungovernable city. It has its problems, of course—the ghetto, with all the misery and danger it can breed; crime rate rising by an average of 10.6 per cent a year since 1959; air pollution; and even the question whether the city ought to junk its relatively new Candlestick Park in favor of a sports arena where fans won't freeze and the wind can't blow pop files into San Francisco Bay.

But the population here is only about 750,000. Even though the mayor's office is a limited one, Alioto still will have statutory powers—over the board of education and city taxation, for instance—that would make John Lindsay feel like Boss Tweed. In addition, the 51-year-old mayor-elect brings some special tools to his new job.

One of the most successful anti-trust lawyers in the country, he also has banking interests here and speaks to the business community in language it understands. The son of a Sicilian immigrant fisherman, he can also talk the language of the ghetto, the labor unions and the minority groups. Out here, they say working men stop shaving on Wednesday to look tough enough for a union meeting on Sunday, but Alioto can speak to them in a Sicilian dialect and call some of the members by their first names.

As a Roman Catholic, moreover, Alioto thinks he can communicate with those he believes are most perturbed over the demands of the Negro for social and economic equality—the low-income Catholic minorities who feel themselves threatened by black demands.

Alioto didn't really plan to be mayor. State Senator Eugene McAteer had been the choice of practically everyone, including Alioto, but died of a heart attack just before the campaign opened. Mayor Jack Shelley, seeking re-election then looked like the best bet; but when he withdrew for health reasons in September, Alioto leaped into the race and ultimately defeated a Republican and a more radical Democrat.

His major achievement was typically unorthodox. He stole the "crime" issue from the Republicans without losing Negro support. He came out hard enough for law enforcement so something about the social and economic conditions that produce crime and the ghetto wards also went for him, by about two to one. Alioto does not think or talk small, he is unblushingly confident that he can lure San Francisco's best teachers into the ghetto schools "on a Peace Corps basis." He plans to jaw-bone the unions that supported him into investing their huge pension funds in new ghetto housing, which ghetto residents would help build and would partially own. He aims to pester the federal government to allow a five-year tax writeoff to private interests building low-cost housing in the ghetto; he is defying conventional political wisdom by advocating a commuter tax to finance, of all things, regional cultural enterprises like the San Francisco opera and symphony; and he has taken his stand against more automobiles and freeways and for high-speed trains and ferry boats. As a fellow Democrat said of him, Joe Alioto seems to trust on making sense. He got elected in spite of that, but it remains to be seen if even he can run a city on such a heretical basis.

Man Who Would Not Name Informant Released

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ordered the release Wednesday afternoon of State Police Director Lynn A. Davis, who was jailed Tuesday for contempt of court after he refused to name a confidential informant.

The high court agreed to release Davis without bond pending a review of his case. Chief Justice Carleton Harris instructed Pulaski County Circuit Court to send a record of proceedings before Circuit Judge William J. Kirby to the high court.

Kirby held Davis in contempt and ordered him jailed Tuesday afternoon when Davis refused to tell the judge and the Pulaski County grand jury the name of an informant on whose information Davis based Sept. 9 gambling raids in the county.

Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who named Davis to the state police job and gave him a free hand to crack down on gambling in August, has lent Davis his personal legal advisor.

The Sept. 9 raids in Pulaski County (Little Rock) resulted in the arrest of 12 persons for gambling violations, but were far less significant than gambling raids the 33-year-old Davis has led at the once wide-open resort town of Hot Springs 50 miles southwest of Little Rock. He has earned a reputation as the state's toughest gambling foe in years.

Davis, an FBI agent for six years, left the Los Angeles office of the FBI in August to take over as State Police director.

New President Is Sworn In

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Jorge Pacheco Areco was sworn in as president Wednesday to succeed Gen. Oscar D. Gestido, who died of a heart attack after nine months of wrestling with welfare state economic problems as Uruguay's chief executive.

He indicated he would continue Gestido's belt-tightening policies.

Pacheco, 47, has been the vice president. He is a journalist and politician who was elected with Gestido last fall on a reform ticket of the Colorado party, dominant in Uruguay for the last century. They took office March 1.

Gestido, 66, was a husky, bushy-browed retired air force general who became Uruguay's first solo president in 16 years. He replaced a Swiss-style government council of nine men that had been dropped as too cumbersome and ineffectual. Pacheco will serve out his five-year term.

They Laughed When They Heard About the Party

McMINNVILLE, Ore. (AP)—They laughed when they heard about John Goodman's party. Now they are planning a flight to London to see if they can help.

One of those who hopes to make the trip is Bill Burton, who first heard of the celebration in Prof. Lloyd S. Millegan's class in Diplomatic History of the United States here at Linfield College.

Goodman is secretary of the World Association for Celebrating Year 2000. From his apartment at 7A Elmcroft Ave., London NW 11, he has written letters all over the world, asking that preparations for the third millennium be started, primarily by planting trees.

One of the last stories written by Eddy Gilmore, AP writer who died Oct. 6 in London, was about Goodman. The story caught Professor Millegan's eye and he told his class about it.

"We all laughed," recalls Burton, 20, a junior in history. "But there is only a small gap between a nut and a visionary. Sure, it's idealistic. But just being in college, planning for the future and spending $10,000 for an education, is idealistic, too."

Millegan telephoned Goodman and got permission to set up the Oregon Alpha Chapter of WACY—pronounced Way-see, not Whacky.

Wednesday they established contact with Mike Ash, 18-year-old student at Oklahoma City University who hopped on Goodman's idea for a celebration even before the Linfield group.

In a three-way telephone conversation with Goodman, they decided Ash and his mother should fly to Portland, 36 miles northeast, then join a group that plans to fly to London on Christmas Day.

Burton and pretty Cynthia Broussard, 21, Oakridge, Ore., were chosen project leaders by their 35 classmates. They hope to finance their trip by selling 1968 memberships in WACY for $2. Optimistically, they have rented Post Office Box 2000 in McMinnville to handle the mail.

They were among 40 at the meeting, which featured a tour of the newly expanded Sylvania plant at York.

Sylvania Men At New York Meeting

Ten men from the Warren area attended the semi-annual national marketing meeting of Sylvania Electric Products Inc., in York, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

They were among 40 at the meeting, which featured a tour of the newly expanded Sylvania plant at York.

Capt. Robb Picks Up License For Marriage to Lynda Bird

(c) N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Capt. Charles S. Robb, the Marine officer who will wed Lynda Bird Johnson in the White House next Saturday, went alone to the Federal Court House Wednesday and paid $2 for a marriage license.
The 28-year-old Robb said he thought it "would be nice" to pick up the license himself. His best man, Douglas Davidson, and Lynda's maid of honor, Warrie Lynn Smith, made the original application last Friday and presented certificates of the couple's blood tests. Meanwhile, the White House described some of the wedding gifts that Lynda and her fiancé have been receiving from world leaders, friends and relatives. Prime Minister and Mrs. Harold Wilson of Britain sent a small silver cream pitcher circa 1790—the era of George III.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, President of the Republic of China, sent Chinese teakwood tables.
Everett Dirksen, the Senate's Republican leader, sent a small silver elephant. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, who married Rep. Nicholas Longworth of Ohio 61 years ago in the East Room of the White House where Saturday's wedding will take place, gave volume one of "My Sketchbook" by George Cruikshank. Mrs. Longworth is the eldest daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt. Cruikshank was a 19th-century caricaturist and illustrator. Lynda and her fiancé are both enthusiastic bridge players and they have received more than 30 decks of playing cards and almost as many cookbooks.

Mr. and Mrs. James S. Robb of Milwaukee, Lynda's future parents-in-law, have sent some family heirlooms, among them a jelly spoon that belonged to Capt. Robb's great grandmother.
The White House also released today a list of a wide variety of buffet dishes to be offered the 500 wedding guests on Saturday. These include lobster and crabmeat in patty shells, stuffed mushrooms, shish kebab, quiche lorraine, country ham, smoked salmon, foie gras, shrimp, eclairs, petit fours and strawberry, apricot and blueberry tarts.
A transcript of a news conference held by Captain Robb last Thursday at the request of reporters was also made available. The conference took place in the bachelor officers' quarters at the Marine barracks on Capitol Hill where Robb lived from Feb. 1966 until last June. He then moved to an apartment in nearby Virginia.
Robb disclosed that he had requested assignment to Vietnam as early as 1965, the year after he graduated from basic training school at Quantico, Va. He said he was required to report to Camp Pendleton, Calif., no later than next March 29, and that he would be assigned to Vietnam from there.
His expectation was that he would go to one of the five northern provinces of South Vietnam, where virtually all Marines are now stationed. Fighting has been very heavy there for months.
When Robb was asked how he felt about going off to war after four months of marriage, he answered:
"It is certainly not the most desirable situation for either of us. It is going to be difficult, but the choice that we had was either to be married before I went over to Vietnam and have a short time together or experience what would be a very, very long wait."

Sticky Situation

A Meadville woman this week bought a roll of tape which lived up to its claim "guaranteed to stick to anything." Wrapping a package in her kitchen, she tore off strips of tape and fastened the ends to molding above the wainscoting. She reached for a strip of tape and pulled—and pulled—and pulled down eight feet of molding with a shower of plaster dust all over herself.

PSU President Warns Tuition May Be Hiked

By JOHN L. TAYLOR
HARRISBURG (AP) — Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University, warned Wednesday that student tuition may have to be raised unless the General Assembly acts quickly on the school's appropriation for fiscal 1967-68.

The warning came on the heels of a statement by Chancellor Wesley Posvar of the University of Pittsburgh, who said last Friday that Pitt may have to take similar action.
A total $103 million in appropriations for the three state-related universities — Penn State, Pitt and Temple — has been held up since June while the Shafer Administration struggles to get sufficient votes in the House to pass a tax program.

Walker said he has appointed a committee to study a possible tuition increase in the absence of action on the part of the General Assembly.

No increase is contemplated for the winter term, beginning Jan. 3, but he said it would be necessary to raise tuition in the spring term to make up a deficit.

In a memorandum to trustees Walker called the situation "the most serious financial crisis the university has faced since the depression."

"At the present time, $16 million in Penn State vouchers lie in the Auditor General's Office in Harrisburg waiting for reimbursement, and these obligations are building up at the rate of almost $4 million monthly," Walker wrote. "They cannot be paid until action is taken on our appropriation bill."

"In the meantime, the university must borrow to meet its obligations, and money spent for interest in this case is, in my opinion, a waste of tax revenue as well as a net loss to the university."

He estimated the loss at $1 million.
Two years ago, tuition at Penn State was reduced from $525 to $450, with a $390 fee at the university's branch campuses. The legislature made an annual appropriation to make up the difference. The tuition at Pitt and Temple is also $450, as a result of subsequent legislation.

Posvar said last week Pitt may have to hike tuition, close its four branch campuses, shut down some schools at the main campus, freeze enrollments or cancel expansion programs.

In a letter to trustees, contents of which were released subsequent to Walker's statements, Posvar said:

"It is now clearly possible that the higher educational system of Pennsylvania could suffer a catastrophe that would make this state the object of pity and alarm throughout the nation."

"The other presidents and I therefore have concluded that the time has come to ask all of our trustees and advisors to use every means they can to influence every legislator they know to place the interest of the commonwealth system of higher education above the partisan politics — specifically, to ask them to vote for any means of revenue needed for this purpose."

Posvar's remarks were significant, since Republican leaders in the House had voiced the opinion last week that the $104 million revenue package agreed upon by the leadership of both parties could pass only if the universities asserted their influence on legislators reluctant to vote for taxes.

The General Assembly reconvenes Monday and the House GOP leadership will try once again to muster the necessary 102 votes for passage. The Democratic leadership, which has led opposition to the Shafer tax program since June, has agreed to give a token dozen votes to break the deadlock, but Republicans, with many as 30 holdouts on some tax proposals, need much more.

Navy Deserters On Hunger Strike

MOSCOW (AP) — Four U.S. Navy deserters now in Moscow protesting American actions in Vietnam are on a week-long hunger strike to support a movement against the U.S. draft, a duty editor at Moscow Radio reported Wednesday.

The editor said the hunger strike began Monday and is to end next Monday, coinciding with the "stop the draft week" being staged in the United States by opponents of the war. Details of the hunger strike were not immediately available. They are living in a Moscow hotel.

The four are Richard D. Bailey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, of San Jose, Calif.; John M. Barilla, 20, of Catonsville, Md.; and Michael A. Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

They left the aircraft carrier Intrepid in Japan Oct. 24 and turned up in Moscow almost a month later. They denounced U.S. involvement in Vietnam on Moscow television.

No public appearances by the sailors have been reported lately but the Soviet press continues to publish interviews with them.

Singer, Deane & Scribner is one of Pennsylvania's largest and most successful investment firms because we invest heavily in people. People are our most important asset. As we grow, we need more good people to grow with us; aggressive, ambitious men who honestly feel their potential is going untapped, their talent is going unrewarded, or their present position is unpromising.
Singer, Deane & Scribner is about to invest in careers for several new Registered Representatives to work in Pittsburgh or our branch office serving your town. College degree and selling experience are preferred but not required. Investment experience is not necessary. An intensive training program is followed by on-the-job guidance and advertising support. Future income and responsibilities are limited only by ability. If an opportunity like this appeals to you, invest a moment of your time to write us in confidence and tell us about yourself, your experience and your ambitions.

TeacherStrikeContinues; PSEA Groups Conflict

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A strike by some teachers against the Scranton Board of Education continued Wednesday as one group voted to accept the board's latest contract proposal and another group rejected it.

The Scranton branch of the Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA) said it turned down the pact because it had no public assurance of any reprisals against the strikers—a charge denied by the board.

When told the PSEA would not accept the contract until there was a public promise of no reprisals, James Kelly, school board solicitor, said, "I think I'm making a public announcement now." He said the PSEA members had been told during negotiations that no reprisals would be taken against the strikers.

The Scranton Federation of Teachers (SFT), AFL-CIO, smaller of the two teacher-bargaining units, accepted the latest contract proposal Wednesday morning.

The school board offer calls for a $700-a-year pay raise Jan. 1 and another $200 a year Sept. 1, 1968. Present salary scales range from $5,000 to $8,000 a year.

After the SFT accepted the contract, Robert Cavanaugh, that unit's president, said, "Let's go back to the classrooms."

The PSEA is also seeking pay for the days the teachers were on strike.

AWARDED PATENT

PhiladelphiaPoliceArrest 27 Antidraft Protesters

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police arrested 27 antidraft protesters Wednesday when they attempted to block the main entrance of the armed forces induction center near center city.

They were among an estimated 300 demonstrators who picketed the center as part of a national antidraft campaign. As policemen placed the sit-down protesters in police vans, some began pounding on the sides and shouting "Join us, join us." People in the crowd began to sing, "We Shall Overcome" and some chanted "Hell No, Don't Go."

There was a smaller group of counter demonstrators, but the two groups were kept apart. The antidraft group, including some women, clergymen and many students, gathered across the street from the center early Wednesday.

Lt. George Fencil, head of the police department's civil disobedience squad, told them to keep the induction center's entrance clear and to keep moving. He warned them, "Violence will be met with violence."

After a brief prayer vigil, the demonstrators marched across Broad Street to the center and some sat down. Police vans moved in, and policemen began carrying them away. Some demonstrators then got up and walked to the waiting vans. Taken to the police administration building, they were charged with disorderly conduct, breach of the peace and resisting arrest.

"They were warned they had to keep moving on the sidewalk," said Fencil. "When they blocked the pavement, we had to go in and pull them out."

Those protesting the draft carried such signs as "Napalm, Johnson's Baby Oil," "Support Our Men, Bring Them Home, Keep Them Home," "Stop the Draft—Stop the War," and "Are You Bombing with Me Jesus." The counter demonstrators sang the "Star Spangled Banner" and carried signs reading, "Draft Dodgers Cry While Brave Men Die," and "Burn Yourself, Not Your Draft Card."

Seaway Stays Open

MONTREAL (AP) — This was the official closing day for the Montreal-Toronto section of the St. Lawrence Seaway system, but mild weather is expected to keep the section open for at least a few more days.

Each December, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority announces that Dec. 6 is the official closing day, but, as in the past, this year's announcement emphasizes that the Montreal-Toronto section will remain open on a day-to-day basis, depending on weather conditions.

There are still a number of ocean-going vessels in the system, sailing downstream on their way back to their home ports. However, the number is rapidly diminishing. Last winter, the Montreal-Toronto section of the seaway remained open a week after the official closing date.

The Seaway Authority has granted no extension of the previously announced Dec. 15 closing date for the other portions of the system.

Gov. Signs Law To HelpFinance Improvements

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer signed into law Wednesday legislation aimed at helping private colleges and universities to finance capital improvements.

The act establishing the Pennsylvania Higher Educational Facilities Authority was signed at a ceremony in the governor's reception room.

"This legislation," said Shafer, "provides a mechanism for colleges and universities to use in obtaining money — at lower than usual interest — for their building and expansion programs."

The public corporation created by the act will be authorized to finance capital improvements at non-profit higher institutions of learning in the same manner state-owned institutions obtain financing through the General State Authority.

Membership of the authority will consist of the governor and other state officials.

Shafer also signed bills to create additional judgeships for the courts of common pleas in Chester, Bucks and Lebanon counties.

The legislation, effective Jan. 1, 1968, authorizes voters in the three counties to elect a judge for a 10-year term in the November, 1969, general election.

In the interim, the governor is empowered to appoint judges to serve until the posts are filled permanently.

Lebanon County now has one Common Pleas Court judge; Chester County, three; and Bucks County, four.

Turn in Draft Cards

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Selective Service Headquarters said Wednesday 27 registrants, voicing objections to the Vietnam War, have returned their draft cards to their local boards.

Brig. Gen. Henry M. Gross, state director, said he did not now what action the individual boards took. His office received three cards in the mail, which were turned over to FBI.

Gross said it was unlawful for an individual to give up possession of his draft card and that local boards had the authority in such cases to take away deferments and reclassify 1A.

"A deferment, for whatever reason, is a privilege, not a right," Gross said. "Every able-bodied man has an obligation to serve in the armed forces unless it is in the national interest to defer him."
